PREFACE

It is the purpose of this volume to give a true history of Howard County in the World War. It includes a brief biography of practically all of the participants, and a short sketch of the war activities carried on by the people at home. To have given the story in detail would have required volumes, but in compiling this material, it has been my purpose to set forth clearly the most important events as they occurred. A special effort was made to secure pictures of all the boys, but this proved to be impossible for in many cases there were no photographs to be had. In a number of instances the only pictures available were "snap shots", and these did not reproduce very well. Other prints had to be made from photographs taken in France and Germany and these too did not make clear halftones.

In gathering this data, I have exhausted every means at my command to get accurate information. More than four thousand letters were written to soldiers and their parents, asking them to co-operate in making the record complete. Notices published in the local newspapers, solicited the support of the public in supplying historical data. Soldiers' letters, newspaper clippings, and notices of transfer of troops proved to be valuable sources of information. Lists of soldiers and war workers were furnished by the township, county, ward and precinct chairmen, teachers, pupils, lodges, city librarian and ministers. To all these, and others who so cheerfully assisted in making this volume possible, I wish to express my deep appreciation. I would indeed be ungrateful if I did not make special mention of the Kokomo Daily Tribune and the Kokomo Daily Dispatch, as both papers gave valuable support to the undertaking. I am also indebted to Elwood Haynes for his valuable assistance, to Mrs. Ruth Ross Herrman for her splendid service in collecting material, to Miss Ida I. Ward for her assistance, and to John W. Oliver, Director of the State Historical Commission, for his hearty co-operation.

THE AWAKENING

Great events in human history often hang by a slender thread, and it requires only the slightest jar to precipitate a revolution. In 1914 very few people believed that civilization was builded upon a latent volcano, which was ready to burst forth at the least provocation and destroy all that had been gained during the past centuries. Yet this was literally true as subsequent events so clearly demonstrated.

During the last days of June of that fateful year, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, and his wife, were murdered in Bosnia, a Serbian province, which had recently been seized by Austria. Immediately following the tragedy war seemed imminent, but matters quickly adjusted themselves, and the event seemed to have been forgotten. When, suddenly without any warning Austria sent Serbia an ultimatum, which was exacting and humiliating in its terms, and only a brief forty-eight hours was given for acceptance. Serbia did not fully accept the terms as laid down in the ultimatum. Whereupon, at the suggestion of Germany, Austria withdrew her ambassador and prepared for war. Russia hastened to little Serbia's assistance; and immediately following, Germany declared war on Russia, despite the frantic efforts of England to prevent it.

The American people were amazed and horrified that civilized nations should resort to arms to settle their misunderstandings. They could scarcely understand that war was indeed a reality, until they saw nation after nation plunge headlong into the irresistible whirlpool of war, which threatened the very foundations of civilization.

The question was asked on every hand, Why this war? Why had peaceful people suddenly rushed to arms, instead of submitting their disputes to arbitration? There was but one answer—Germany had gone insane from military intoxication, and was striking for world power. Realizing that success depended upon attacking her enemies before they had time to mobilize their forces, Germany without warning abrogated her treaties and marched across Belgium's territory to strike at the heart of France. Belgium resisted, and her army was crushed, her country devastated, and her people dragged into slavery. She lost all except honor; but so long as history is read, the story of her brave little army, which held in check the on-coming hordes of German soldiers, until the French and English could marshal their forces, will be given the place of honor with Leonidas and his three hundred soldiers who died to save Greece. Belgium was given a chance to save herself, if she would permit the German army to pass through her country unmolested, but this she would not do; she preferred to die, rather than sacrifice her honor.

In spite of their aversion to war, the American people began to realize that sooner or later they too would be drawn into the conflict. They wanted to remain neutral, but that was an impossibility, because the war was a conflict between the forces of right and wrong; it was a struggle for supremacy between the principles of autocracy and democracy, and it was to decide whether civilization or barbarism should dominate the human race. When issues like these were at stake, there was no question as to what the American people would do. However, the Germans had prepared for just such an emergency by spreading insidious propaganda broadcast throughout this country, telling of German efficiency, of her splendid universities, her music, her literature, and her KULTUR. So systematically and thoroughly was it done that Germany had won the respect and admiration of a great number of people. The Kaiser explained at length that Germany had not sought war, but that she had been attacked and had struck only to save her integrity. The stories of atrocities committed by the German soldiers during the early days of the war were given but little credence. Americans had not fully understood the German mind which had been molded by the military party in its forty years of preparation for the day when it would strike for a place in the sun. The war lords of Germany had thought to terrify her enemies by frightfulness. Gradually, reports filtered through to this country that could not be disputed. Mutilated Belgian children were brought to this country and their mute story was enough to convince the most skeptical. Returning soldiers told of the savage butchery of the aged and infirm. Even those who had gone to minister to the wants of the sick and wounded, when captured, were despoiled and murdered. There was no crime so heinous, no cruelty so severe, and no deed so vile that Germans hesitated to inflict it upon those, who by all the laws of civilized warfare, were entitled to protection.

Notwithstanding the fact that Germany had violated her treaties and had not hesitated to strike down any nation that opposed her will, the American people thought certainly their rights would be respected and that the United States would escape the cataclysm which threatened to engulf the entire world. But to stay neutral was impossible. American ships were sunk without warning; the lives of her citizens were destroyed, and the nation was humiliated and insulted. All of this was done deliberately, despite the repeated protests and warnings of President Wilson. There was a time when Germany seemed to accede to America's demands, but it was only for a brief time, for she soon announced her policy of unrestricted submarine warfare, which stated that all vessels, neutral as well as enemy, would be sunk without warning, if they were found in the war zone. The announcement of such a policy was more than the American people could endure. President Wilson immediately severed diplomatic relations with the Imperial German Government, and the United States Congress declared war April 6, 1917.

The die was cast, the United States had crossed the Rubicon and a peace loving people had entered the fearful maelstrom, not for aggrandisement of territory, but to establish justice in the world, to secure the safety of her own people, and to destroy forever the merciless military power which was threatening the liberties of the world.

Immediately following the declaration of war, the United States Congress passed the conscription act, which provided for a great army to be made up of men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one. In order that there might be a sufficient number of competent men to officer the new army which was to be created, officers' training schools were established in many parts of the United States. Indiana was favored with one, which was located at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis.

The people of Howard County, soon after war was declared, began to adjust themselves to war requirements. When the first officers' training school was established in May, 1917, about fifty of her finest and best young men went into training, and at the close of the camp in August, practically all of them had won commissions. Many more of her sons were likewise successful in other officers' training camps which were organized later. Recruiting officers opened headquarters for both army and navy, and enlistments in both branches of the service were heavy.

The first registration for conscripted men took place June 5, 1917. Later, all men who had reached their majority since the date of the first registration, were required to register. Finally, in order to secure all the men necessary to win the war, Congress passed an act requiring all men between the ages of nineteen and forty-five, inclusive, who had not registered heretofore, to do so on Sept. 12, 1918. Each registration was conducted without interruption, and soon the boys were called by groups to the different cantonments. The first increment of conscripted men, thirteen in number, left Kokomo, Ind., for Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Friday, Sept. 5, 1917. From that time, at more or less regular intervals until the close of the war, boys were sent to be trained in the business of war.

The citizens of Howard County wishing to do honor to the boys as they left for camp, gathered in great numbers at the railroad station to see them off. The scenes at the station as the boys took their departure were most impressive, and once witnessed could never be forgotten. This was especially true when a large number of boys were sent away at one time. It seemed that the whole town and country-side turned out to give the boys a word of cheer before they went away. The band stirred the crowd with martial music. Veterans of the Civil War were there, bent in form and slow of step; yet the fire of patriotism burned in their breasts as strongly as it had in '61. Their very presence was an inspiration. Fathers, mothers, and friends, all were there to bid the boys good-by and Godspeed. When all was in readiness the boys clambered aboard a waiting train, and were soon on their way to become a part of Uncle Sam's great army which was rapidly being whipped into shape. Of course, the boys could not fully realize what was before them, but they had the courage and the will born only to a free people, to fight for a principle.

It was while the home folks stood watching the receding train carrying with it the young manhood of the community, that war became a reality to the people of Howard County. From that time the transformation was made quickly and thoroughly. The spirit of patriotism burned a little brighter in their breasts; self was forgotten; the light of a new day had dawned; new ideals had quickened the conscience; the love of country had been deepened; faith in a just cause had been strengthened, until the people had fully prepared to follow the lines of action that would bring about most speedily the annihilation of the murderous military power of Germany and her allies.

The people of the Atlantic States believed that the Middle West was not fully aroused to the dangers that threatened this country. But when war was once declared the people of this section entered into the fight with so much spirit that the East was outdistanced, and was wont to look to the West for plans of organization. Indiana was right at the front in all war activities, and loyally supported the National Government in all its war measures. The States were indebted to the individual counties for the excellent showing which was made. Howard County did not shirk any duty that was entrusted to her, but came forward in her own characteristic way, and "put over" every war measure allotted to her.

She raised her full quota for the Red Cross, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association, Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, and Jewish organization. She also oversubscribed her quota for each bond and war stamp allotment. In fact the citizens of Howard County did their full share toward winning the war, by giving of their time, money, and men. Her boys who went into the service did their part nobly. There was no duty so exacting and no sacrifice so great that they did not gladly and cheerfully perform it. They left their homes feeling that they had entered into a righteous cause, and this gave them courage to do their duty whether it was at home, at sea, or on the battlefields of Europe. Some were at St. Mihiel; others at Chateau Thierry, the turning point of the war; and still others broke the stubborn resistance in the Argonne Forest. Her boys were attached to the famous divisions that took part in the great drives on the Western Front, not only with the Americans, but with the English, French and Italians; they were at Archangel and Vladivostok; they were on the Mexican Border, at Manila, and down at Panama; they were guarding our own coasts, and training in our camps. Wherever duty-called, Howard County boys were there ready, if necessary, to make the supreme sacrifice.

Abney, Thomas.*

Ackles, Frank M., son of Fred S. and Effie Ackles, was born Feb. 6, 1891. He enlisted in the army at Tipton, Ind., in August, 1917, and served in the ordnance personnel department until January, 1919, when he was discharged.

Acuff, Arthur.

Adams, Albert Oral, was born in Tipton Co., Ind. He was twenty-five years of age when he entered the army at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., as a member of Bat. A, Second Regiment, F. A. R. D. He was discharged Dec. 13, 1918.

Adams, Cassius Clay, son of William W. and Rebecca Adams, was born Nov. 25, 1890. His enlistment in the navy dated from April 16, 1917, to Feb. 10, 1918.

Adams, Charles J. (5), son of John E. and Lee O. Bruce Adams, was born in Lafayette, Ind. After graduating from high school, he attended the Indiana Medical College, completing the course in 1906. He married Lovie Hobbs, of Elwood, Ind. On Jan. 1, 1918, he enlisted at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and, as a first lieutenant, he was called to active duty April 24, 1918. For six months he was at the base hospital at Camp Custer, Mich., as a specialist in eye, ear, nose, and throat service. On Oct. 25, 1918, he received orders for foreign duty, and had reported at Allentown, Pa. While there the armistice was signed. His discharge was granted Dec. 5, 1918.

Adams, Cleo Wilbur (40), son of Wilburn and Zora E. Adams, was born April 3, 1892, at Elwood, Ind. After graduating from the Kokomo High School in 1911, he married Gladys Fae Drake in July, 1916. On Dec. 13, 1917, at Kokomo, Ind., he enlisted as a machinist in aviation, and while at Love Field, Dallas, Texas, he was promoted to sergeant, first class. He served in France and with the Army of Occupation in Germany. As a member of the 278th Aero Squadron, he was in the Meuse-Argonne offensive and the Toul sector. His back was injured in an airplane crash. On July 22, 1919, he was mustered out of the service at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio.

Adams, Everett Wesley, was born March 12, 1894. He enlisted in Co. E, July 27, 1917, and after spending a few weeks at East Chicago, Ind., and nearly a year at Camp Shelby, Miss., he was sent to France in October, 1918, with the 152nd Infantry. He returned to the States in the summer of 1919.

Adams, John Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Platt, of Indianapolis, Ind., and adopted son of Dr. Charles J. Adams, of Kokomo, Ind., was born July 11, 1903. At the time of his enlistment in the army, Sept. 25, 1917, he was living with Woodson M. Hobbs of Taylor Tp., Howard Co., Ind. He was accepted at Indianapolis, Ind., and sworn in at Fort Thomas, Ky., where he was assigned to Troop F, Seventh Cavalry, Fort Bliss, Texas. He was only fourteen years of age at the time he volunteered, and it is thought that he was younger at the date of his enlistment than any other Howard County soldier in the World War. When he was discharged June 4, 1919, he immediately re-enlisted for another year.

Adams, Luther L.

Affert, George D. (90), son of John W. and Iva Affert, was born in Anderson, Ind., Feb. 24, 1895. He enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., July 28, 1917, and was sworn in August 1, 1917. After a few months of training, he was promoted to sergeant, and sent overseas. Sailing by way of St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, he reached Liverpool, England on Christmas Day, 1917. His service in France covered a period of fifteen months. He returned from St. Nazaire to New York, landing March 7, 1919, and was sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio, to be discharged.

NOTE.—A word of explanation will assist the reader in understanding some of the terms used, and in finding the records and pictures of the soldiers. The names of the soldiers occur in alphabetical order. The number after the name indicates the number plate on which the picture appears. Names standing alone, were reported from Howard County, but no record or picture could be found. In many cases, it was impossible to get photographs of the boys. Biographies were verified, either by the soldiers or by some friend or relative. Military terms are abbreviated as follows:—F. A., Field Artillery; O. T. C., C. O. T. S., F. A. C. O. T. S., Officers Training School, Central or Field Artillery, Officers Training School; A. E. F., American Expeditionary Forces; Q. M. C., Quarter Masters Corps; Co., Company; Bat., Battery; S. A. T. C., Students Army Training Corps; R. D., Replacement Depot.

Agnew, Russell Paul, husband of Adeline Elizabeth Agnew, was born in Tipton Co., Ind., June 22, 1896, and after finishing his high school work, he attended college two years. On Dec. 9, 1915, he enlisted at Little Rock, Ark., and at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., he was assigned to Troop K, Eighth Cavalry, Fort Bliss, Texas, Jan. 16, 1916. He was promoted to corporal and then to sergeant at Douglas, Ariz. When he was commissioned second lieutenant at the Fourth O. T. C., at Fort Bliss, Texas, he was assigned to the Fifth Cavalry. Beginning Sept. 21, 1918, he was an instructor at Camp Stanley, Texas. On Dec. 24, 1918, he received his discharge, and returned to his home at Kokomo, Ind.

Aikman, Paul (58), son of Bert and Mattie Aikman, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 14, 1896. Upon entering the army July 23, 1918, he was first sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.; then he was transferred to Camp McClellan, Ala. He was promoted to first class private of Co. G, Twelfth Ammunition Train. His discharge was received at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Feb. 7, 1919.

Aikman, Raymond Charles (59), son of Charles and Anna Aikman, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 26, 1899. His education extended through three years of high school. In May, 1918, at Kokomo, Ind., he enlisted in the Q. M. C., and was immediately sent to Jefferson Barracks, Mo.; from there he was transferred to Jacksonville, Fla.; then to Newport News, Va.; and finally he was sent to France with Supply Co. No. 315, Commissary Department. He was discharged Sept. 16, 1919.

Aikman, Roy Wilfred (5), son of Charles and Anna Aikman, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 16, 1895. In 1913 he graduated from the Kokomo High School. He entered the first O. T. C. at Fort Benjamin Harrison, and was commissioned second lieutenant. After his transfer to Camp Zachary Taylor, he was promoted to first lieutenant, and had charge of three exchange units. When a call was made for volunteers to go over seas, he offered his services, and was sent to France with Co. H, 801st Pioneer Infantry. He returned from foreign duty, and was discharged at Camp Mills, L. I. in July, 1919.

Akers, Henry, enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 26, 1917, and was a member of a balloon squadron.

Akers, Wayne Clifford, was born Oct. 22, 1899. He enlisted June 10, 1917, and was assigned to ambulance work.

Albaugh, Frederick F., was born April 26, 1898. He entered the army June 26, 1916, and was discharged May 7, 1917, at Jeffersonville, Ind., because of physical disability. He was a musician, third class, Second Regiment, Indiana National Guard.

Albaugh, Omer Harry, was born Nov. 9, 1890. He enlisted in Co. E, June 26, 1916, and served on the Mexican Border. His service in France was with the 301st Heavy Tank Corps. Intensive training was given in England after leaving Camp Zachary Taylor, and the firing line was reached in August, 1918. It is thought there were but six Howard County soldiers who saw active service in the heavy tank corps, and these were on the firing line with the British forces in northern France. He was discharged at Camp Sherman, Ohio, April 7, 1919.

Albrecht, Herman G. (15), son of Mr. and Mrs. August Albrecht, was born in Chicago, Ill., Nov. 27, 1897. He attended the Indianapolis schools and Culver Military Academy. After enlisting in June, 1917, he was sent to Fort Warren and Fort Revere, Mass., before going to France. From July, 1918, until the close of the war he was on the western front as a member of Bat. A, Fifty-fifth C. A. C., First Army. He was promoted from time to time, and was recommended for a commission, but this could not be granted as he was under twenty-one years of age. He was discharged Feb. 11, 1919.

Albresch, William.

Albright, Fite (42), son of Dyer and Sarah Albright, was born in Tennessee in 1890. In 1916 he enlisted in the army at Kokomo, Ind., and was sent to the Mexican Border with Co. E. He was also stationed with this company at East Chicago, Ind., and Hattiesburg, Miss. In the fall of 1918 he went to France with the 152nd Infantry, and returned to the States in the spring of 1919.

Albright, Fred Egbert (96), one of the twin sons of Henry R. and Carrie Smith Albright, was born March 5, 1897, in Kokomo, Ind. He completed three years of high school work. On Sept. 4, 1918, he was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, and after training in the school for band men, he was assigned to the largest band in the camp with the rank of musician, and attached to the Fourth Regiment, F. A. R. D. Fred and Ned Albright were devoted to each other; they played together, worked together, and were never separated from each other until they went to Camp Zachary Taylor, when Fred was transferred to the camp at West Point, a few miles down the Ohio River. He was discharged March 11, 1919, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

Albright, Henry. Albright, James.

Albright, John Robert (76), son of Henry B. and Carrie Smith Albright, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 27, 1884. His education extended through one and one-half years of high school. Enlisting at Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 25, 1917, he was appointed wagoner May 3, 1918, and sergeant P. W., July 29, 1918. He was on duty at the following places: Fort McDowell, Calif., Oct. 25, 1917, to Nov. 29, 1917; M. O. T. C., Fort Riley, Kansas, Nov. 29, 1917, to Dec. 21, 1917; Motor Ambulance Co. C, June 8, 1918, to July 25, 1918; Provisional Ambulance Co. C, July 25, 1918, to Aug. 22, 1918; Camp Kearney, Calif., Ambulance Co. 261, Aug. 22, 1918, to Oct. 2, 1918; and Ambulance Co. 263, Oct. 2, 1918, to Feb. 12, 1919, when he was honorably discharged.

Albright, Ned Egbert (96), son of Henry and Carrie Smith Albright, was born March 5, 1897, in Kokomo, Ind. He is one of the twin sons of this family to serve in the army. He completed three years of high school. When he was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Sept. 4, 1918, he was placed in the Fourth Regiment Band with the rank of musician, first class. He was transferred to the Sixty-seventh P. A. Band at Camp Knox, West Point, Ky., where he received his discharge Dec. 21, 1918.

Albright, William Luther (17), son of Lacy and Estella Albright, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 10, 1899. He graduated from the Kokomo High School in June, 1917. In October, 1918, he enlisted in the S. A. T. C. at DePauw University and was discharged Dec. 14, 1918.

Aldrich, Charles W. (59), son of Wilford E. and Cora E. Aldrich, was born on Douglas Island, Alaska, Jan. 24, 1898. Since the death of his parents, he has made his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Richey, of Cassville, Howard Co., Ind. His uncle, Senator Frank Aldrich, still lives in Alaska. Charles W. Aldrich enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., in the Regular Army in June, 1916, and was sent overseas as a member of Co. A, First Division Ammunition Train. This division was in the heavy fighting from the time the first American troops entered the front lines until the close of the war; then it was sent to Germany in the Army of Occupation, and was among the last of the troops to be returned to the States.

Alexander, Buell, son of Lewis F. and Ida Alexander, was born May 31, 1893. He enlisted in Co. E, of Kokomo, Ind., in July, 1916, and served with this outfit until November, 1918.

Alexander, C. C., was born in Howard Co., Ind. He was discharged at Camp Sherman, Ohio, Sept. 3, 1918, because of physical disability.

Alexander, Earl (93), son of Emery E. and Nancy Olive Goyer Alexander, was born March 7, 1900, at Kokomo, Ind. He enlisted in the navy in December, 1917, and was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station until transferred to the U. S. SS. "Chattanooga". He made five trips across the Atlantic to the war zone line in this convoy ship. After the war his boat sailed from New York to the Bermuda Islands, Azores, Africa, England, and France. The home port several months was at Harwich, England, fifty-six miles from London. His term of enlistment expires in September, 1920.

Alexander, George Vivian (93), son of Emery E. and Nancy Olive Goyer Alexander, was born Oct. 3, 1887, at Warren, Ind. He enlisted in the army Dec. 8, 1917, at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and was assigned to Co. G, Tenth Infantry. His company was sent to Nitro, W. Va., to guard the building of a powder plant. He was transferred to Battle Creek, Mich., where his company was in training to go overseas, but the signing of the armistice prevented departure. His discharge was given April 15, 1919. He re-enlisted for one year, and was immediately appointed corporal. He had been previously advanced to first class private.

Alexander, Germanicus William (94), son of Emery E. and Nancy Olive Goyer Alexander, was born March 2, 1895, at Kokomo, Ind. He enlisted in the navy in October, 1913, and was stationed at Norfolk, Va. When he re-enlisted in October, 1917, he was transferred to the U. S. SS. Destroyer "Manley." In a collision with a British ship more than 130 of the Manley's crew were killed. After the war he was stationed in the Mediterranean where his duties took him to Gibraltar, Spain, Austria, Turkey and Greece.

Bush, Frank, son of John and Jennie Lazink Bush, was born in Austria. He entered the army in Kokomo, Ind., in April, 1918.

Bush, Rolly Franklin (23), son of William and Yiola Bush, was born in Brown Co., Ind., Aug. 5, 1895. He attended the Kokomo High School for two years. When he entered the army at Kokomo, Ind., April 27, 1918, he was sent to Purdue University, but a little later was transferred to the field artillery. He sailed for France, July 17, 1918, and there placed in the training camp at Cherbourg. After the signing of the armistice, he was sent with the Army of Occupation to Alsace-Lorraine with Bat. A, 344th F. A., A. E. F. His discharge was issued at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., June 25, 1919.

Butcher, Claude, enlisted in Co. E of Kokomo. In October, 1918, he left Camp Shelby, Miss., for France with the 152nd Infantry.

Butler, Horace E., son of Charles W. and Sarah H. Carter Butler, was born near New London, Ind., May 3, 1894. His education extended through two years of high school. He was married Jan. 22, 1914, to Fary B. Harmon. On April 3, 1918, he entered the army at Frankfort, Ind., and was in training at Fort Hamilton, N. Y., until July 15, when he sailed from an American port for France. His first assignment was in the small town of Membrolle, situated about ninety miles from Brest; then he was at St. Nazaire for two weeks. Arriving in New York, Feb. 22, 1919, he was sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio, to be discharged March 12, 1919. He had been attached to Bat. D, 70th Regiment, Coast Artillery Corps, Thirty-sixth Division.

Butler, Ralph Emerson (59), son of Casper and Maude Laurie McKinsey Butler, was born in Ada, Ohio, Feb. 20, 1898. While a member of the senior class of the Kokomo High School, he enlisted April 22, 1917, at Kokomo, and was sent to Fort Thomas, Ky., where he served six months in the commissary. Then, at his own request, he was transferred to the cavalry, and sent to Laredo, Texas, where he became a member of Troop K, Fourteenth Cavalry. This regiment was sent to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, in March, 1918, making the trip overland by horse, in order to take infantry training in addition to cavalry work. The troop was kept in Texas instead of being sent to France.

Butler, Winfield O., was born in Amboy, Ind., June 19, 1892. His education extended through one and one-half years of high school. Since 1912 he made his home with his uncle, Samuel S. Butler, of Kokomo. Here he enlisted in the aviation department of the army, March 6, 1918, and was sent to Kelly Field, Texas. July 2, 1918, he embarked from Newport News, Va., and after reaching France, was advanced to chauffeur, and then to first class chauffeur in the 101st Balloon Replacement Co.

Dayhuff, Charles H. (86), son of Samuel and Ladie Duke Dayhuff, was born Dec. 17, 1876, in Proli, Orange Co., Ind. He completed three years in the Kokomo High School before he entered the Regular Army at St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 29, 1896. Until July 5, 1901, he was with the Eighth Cavalry; then he was transferred to the Fourteenth Cavalry. July 30, 1917, he was commissioned major in the adjutant general's department, and ordered to Hoboken, N. J. Major Dayhuff has a remarkable talent for remembering names and faces, and this served him well in what was one of the busiest military ports in the world. Major Dayhuff has been in service in the Philippines twice, his wife and son accompanying him on one trip; he married Monette Butcher in Kokomo just after he had returned from his first trip there. It is said there is but one Howard County soldier who has served a longer period in the military departments of our government than Major Dayhuff; but while the other man has been in the service for twenty-nine years, half of his time has been in the navy, while the entire enlistment of twenty-three years of Charles Dayhuff has been in the army, so to him belongs the honor of the longest continuous service in one branch of military activity.

Deal, Earl.

Deal, Harold Owen (65), son of Joseph and Stella M. Deal, was born in Kokomo, Ind., March 3, 1899. He graduated from the Kokomo High School in 1917. He entered the S. A. T. C. at Butler College, Oct. 1, 1918, and was mustered out of the service in December following.

When he went to France he was changed to the 116th Infantry and given work at the headquarters company.

Helsley, Owen J., was inducted into the army, and was discharged at Camp Pike, Ark., June 29, 1918, because of physical disability.

Helsley, Robert W. (8), son of George and Emma Helsley, was born in Greentown, Ind., April 1, 1898. Feb. 6, 1918, he enlisted in the army and was sent to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. April 9, 1919, he left Camp Greenleaf for France with Medical Department No. 6. Just two months from the day of his arrival in Brest he went into action and was on the following fronts: St. Die, Bois d'Ormont, Frapelle, St. Mihiel, Verdun, and Argonne-Meuse. He was with the first American troops that went to Germany.

Hendee, Edgar.

Hendershot, Robert, enlisted in Co. E, at Kokomo, and was promoted to corporal. In October, 1918, he embarked for France with the 152nd Infantry.

Henderson, Frederick Arthur (58), son of Charles A. and Harriett Crabbs Henderson, was married to Edna Anne Shaanon, of Kokomo, Ind., shortly after he was commissioned first lieutenant in the medical reserve corps at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Aug. 27, 1917. After spending two months in training, he was selected with fifteen others for special work at Rockefeller Institute under Dr. Alexis Garrell; then he was ordered for duty at the base hospital at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., where he was placed on the surgical staff, and for several months was in the empyema ward. A dearth of surgeons made his work extremely heavy, and he was called for many operations in major surgery in addition to the work in his special department. This work was so exhausting that he became an easy prey to streptococci infection, and this opened the way for tuberculosis. He was sent to the U. S. Army General Hospital, Fort Bayard, New Mexico, early in October, 1918, but he gradually grew worse, and died there Jan. 13, 1919. He had been selected for the permanent staff at Camp Zachary Taylor and had been recommended for a captaincy, but his illness prevented him receiving these promotions. He had graduated in 1912 from the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.

Henderson, Henry.

Henderson, Scott Woody (24), son of Jesse A. and Emma E. Henderson, was born near Kokomo, Ind., June 30, 1887. He left high school at the end of the second year. His wife is Ethel N. Henderson. He was commissioned first lieutenant in the ordnance department, Washington, D. C., but his work was such that it was necessary for him to travel part of the time, as he was engaged in the development and engineering of fighting tanks. He had been recommended for a captaincy when the armistice was signed. His enlistment period was from Jan. 23, 1918, to December 16, 1918.

Hendry, Wilson G., was born at Hartford City, Ind. He was twenty-two years of age when he entered the army. When he was discharged at Camp Knox, Ky., he was a member of Bat. B, Sixty-ninth F. A.

Henger, Rudolph (97), son of Joseph and Sophia Hadwiger Henger, was born at Johnstown, Pa. He was secretary of the Knights of Columbus, Camp Shelby, Miss., for five months, beginning Nov. 7, 1918.

He was on the firing line for two months as a member of the 115th F. A., Bat. B, Thirtieth Division, known as the "Old Hickory" Division.

Henninger, Otis Felix, was born May 6, 1899. He joined the navy Feb. 12, 1917.

Henry, Bert Elroy (60), son of Thomas and Cora L. Henry, was born in New Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 16, 1891. He was sent to Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, when he enlisted in the army, June 27, 1918. He served in France with the headquarters company of the 363rd Regiment, Eighty-fourth Division, and after the signing of the armistice he was stationed in Belgium.

Henry, Cecil Ray, was born at Monticello, Ind., Sept. 6, 1893. On Sept. 21, 1917, he began his army training at Camp Funston, Kansas. He was promoted to sergeant in the air service. His period of service entitles him to two gold chevrons, as he has served twelve months in France. His discharge was received July 3, 1919, at Camp Funston.

Henry, Charles Victor (63), son of Elijah and Mary Ann Ostler Henry, was born in Clinton Co., Ind. He began his service at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Oct. 5, 1917, and except for six weeks at Camp Knox, he received all of his military training at the Louisville cantonment. In October, 1918, he reached France with Bat. D, 325th F. A., Eighty-fourth Division. While he was not on the firing line, he was on duty for eight months in the 326th Military Police. He was discharged the latter part of June, 1919.

McDaniel, Nolen Emison (39), son of Mitchel and Lon Hobson McDaniel, was born in Russiaville, Ind., Dec. 31, 1892. After graduating from the New London High School, he attended Indiana University two years and the University of Colorado one year. He was married Jan. 13, 1917, at Quincy, Ill., to Effie May Green. As soon as war was declared in April, 1917, he tried to enlist but was rejected. However, when the draft law went into operation, he was accepted at Quincy, Ill., and sent to Camp Dodge, Iowa, in September, 1917. He was promoted to corporal and sent overseas in August, 1918, with Co. A, 337th Machine Gun Battalion, Eighty-eighth Division. His contingent was not included in the sailing list until after midsummer, 1919.

McCreary, Virgil Roscoe (95), son of Alex. and Sarah Smith McCreary, was born in Clinton Co., Ind., Oct. 5, 1897. He enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., Dec. 10, 1917, and five days after he was mustered into service at Fort Thomas, Ky., he was sent to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., where he remained five months. With the exception of time spent in drilling he drove a motor truck. Immediately after his arrival at Camp Merritt, N. J., he was sent to the hospital with the mumps. Upon his recovery, three weeks later, he was assigned to the 212th Casual Co., which sailed for France June 14, 1918. Seven days later he landed at Southampton, England, and immediately he crossed the channel to France. He went then to the following places: Blois, Chammont, Chatillon-sur-Seine, Recey-sur-Orce. At the last place he rejoined his old company, the Forty-second Field Hospital No. 48, which then had the care of the Ninetieth Division for four months. On Oct. 23, 1918, his company was transferred to the Argonne sector and located on the Meuse-Argonne front. After the armistice, he moved Nov. 13, 1918, to a German evacuation hospital, which was used as a sterilizing plant. On Dec. 7, 1918, he moved to Montau (Yonne) and took charge of Camp Hospital No. 67. He left for Brest, France, March 18, 1919, and on April 7, 1919, he embarked on the German ship "Graf Waldersee," which reached New York April 20, 1919. After staying at Camp Dix, N. Miller, Harry V.

Miller, Kenneth Edward, son of Elwood O. and Lulu Parks Miller (deceased), was born in Peru, Ind. He tried to enlist at Kokomo, Peru and Indianapolis, but was rejected each time. Finally, he was accepted at Kokomo, but when given a second examination, he was rejected. Three weeks later he joined the marines and was accepted at Indianapolis and sent to the Brooklyn Navy Yards, where he was still on duty in the fall of 1919, attached to the Sixtieth Co., Marine Barracks.

Miller, Lennis (98), son of Jerry and Rosa Fairfield Miller, was born in Howard Co., Ind., Jan. 4, 1894. He entered the army in 1917, and the last report received was his transfer from Camp Jackson, S. C., to Camp Custer, Mich., Dec. 14, 1918. He was a corporal in Bat. A, 61st Artillery.

Miller, Marvin Lester (51), son of Oral and Viola Miller, was born May 8, 1897, in Kokomo, Ind. He was at Puget Sound, Wash., when he joined the navy, Sept. 29, 1916. He was stationed on the battleship "Rochester," which patrolled the Pacific and captured Mexican smugglers. When war was declared the "Rochester" was sent to the Atlantic, where it assisted in guarding transports. On one of his trips across the Atlantic he had the satisfaction of seeing a German submarine sunk at the end of a three-hour chase. He was promoted to first class fireman.

Miller, Homer Ralph, son of W. C. and Frances I. Current Miller, was born at Huntington, Nebr., Jan. 7, 1894. He graduated from the high school at Crofton, Nebr., and from Valparaiso University Law School in 1917. He was inducted into the army at Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 21, 1917, and upon his arrival at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., he was assigned to Bat. D, 325th F. A.; later he was transferred to Co. K, 152nd Infantry and placed on duty in the records office, Bourges, France. Upon his return to the States he was sent to Washington, D. C., where he had further work in the A. G. O. section. His discharge was given at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Sept. 15, 1919. He had entered the army as a private and was discharged with the rank of battalion sergeant major.

Miller, Otto Frederick, son of August and Augusta Miller, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1889. His wife is Agnes Miller. He has been in the navy since 1909, and during the World War won distinction in fighting submarines. One ship upon which he was stationed was blown up and only forty-seven of the crew escaped. He was rescued at the end of the second day by a French liner and landed in France. As chief petty officer he was stationed, after the close of hostilities, at Norfolk, Va.

Miller, Parks M., son of Elwood O. and Lulu Parks Miller (deceased), joined the regular army before war was declared. On Oct. 14, 1918, he was so severely wounded that he was left crippled for life, and was sent by the government to the vocational training school in Chicago.

Mills, Paul (51), son of Charles E. and Edna Mills, was born in Carroll Co., Ind., in 1897. He enlisted in the army at Fort Benjamin Harrison Sept. 16, 1917; later he was transferred to Camp Custer, Mich.

Mills, Russell R. (12), son of John and Pearl Daniels Mills, was born at Bunkerhill, Ind., Jan. 8, 1901. From the time he joined the navy at Indianapolis, Ind., until he went to France as a seaman on the U. S. SS. "Leviathan," he was on duty at the Great Lakes Station, Chicago, and the League Island Navy Yards, Philadelphia. After his arrival at Brest he was transferred to the U. S. SS. "Carola" in November, 1918, and was stationed at the naval base.

Milloer, Fred B.

Milner, George Robert W. (26), son of Cyrus H. and Mary Elizabeth Whitaker Milner, was born at Middlefork, Ind., in 1894. He graduated from the Kokomo High School in 1914. He registered in Detroit, Mich., but had his records transferred to Kokomo, Ind. At the end of five weeks of training at Camp Zachary Taylor, he was sent to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.; then he went overseas and landed in France April 28, 1918. Beginning June 1, 1918, he began active service in the Vosges mountains; then followed St. Die, Frappelle, St. Mihiel, Mense-Argonne and many minor engagements. The troops became greatly fatigued by the rapid advance and continuous fighting. Four years of labor by the enemy and the greatest resources at their command had made the positions supposedly impregnable, for the Verdun hills and the almost impenetrable forest of the Argonne were of themselves a mighty barrier. Yard by yard the Americans penetrated the deep ravines and forests, though greatly outnumbered. When the armistice came the troops, though war weary, went on to Germany, and Private Milner was stationed in Luxemburg with Co. D, headquarters detachment, Finance Department. He arrived home early in August, 1919, after spending nineteen months overseas with the Fifth Division.

Milner, Ralph.

Milton, Walter Franklin, was born June 3, 1892. His service in the army lasted from Dec. 15, 1917, to Dec. 9, 1918.

He entered the army at Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 21, 1917, and was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., and Camp Knox, Ky., before going overseas Sept. 7, 1918, as a corporal in Bat. D, 325th F. A. Arriving at Newport News, Va., Feb. 15, 1919, he was discharged March 1, 1919, at Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Mitchell, Charles, entered the army Nov. 11, 1918, and was mustered out the following day, as the armistice had been signed the day he enlisted for Camp Wadsworth, S. C.

Mitchell, Dewey. Mitchell, George A.

Mitchell, Herman James, son of Boone and Mollie Mitchell, went to Fort Hamilton, N. Y., April 3, 1918, and was there assigned to the Twelfth Co., but was later placed in the Ninth Co., Coast Artillery Corps, and sent to Fort Sherman, Canal Zone, Panama.

Mitchell, Howard J., was born at Tipton, Ind. When he was assigned to Bat. F, F. A. R. D., Camp Zachary Taylor, he was twenty-one years old. His discharge was dated Dec. 17, 1919.

Mitchell, Kenneth Sylvester (20), son of William and Huldah Morris Mitchell, was born in Ervin Tp., Howard Co., Ind., June 16, 1892. In 1911 he graduated from the New London High School; then two years were spent at the Indiana State Normal; two years at Earlham College; and one year at Haverford College, Pa. On March 29, 1918, he began his army training at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., with the depot brigade, but later he was placed in the Q. M. Co., and at the time the war closed he was serving as deputy zone supply officer. His work at Camp Zachary Taylor had been with the cash sales and inspection branch. He was promoted to corporal and then to sergeant.

Mitchell, Theodore Connett, son of George and Eva Carver Mitchell, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 26, 1893. He pursued his studies through one year of high school. On Dec. 15, 1917, he enlisted in the army at Kokomo, Ind., and until Feb. 6, 1918, served with the 161st Depot Brigade; then he was transferred to the 282nd Aero Squadron. His foreign service lasted from Aug. 8 to Dec. 11, 1918. His discharge was received Dec. 27, 1918, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., and at that time he was attached to the Third Co., First Battalion, 159th Depot Brigade.

Minick, Earl R.

Mock, Floyd R. (87), son of Ralston and Della Sherman Mock, was born Feb. 10, 1905, at Clymers Station, Ind. He entered the army at Attica, Ind., June 20, 1918, and was attached to Bat. E, Sixth Regiment, F. A. R. D. He was mustered out of the army at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Dec. 16, 1918.

Modlin, Walter.

Mohler, Harley V. (20), son of Robert A. and Mary B. Mohler, was born in Henry Co., Ohio, June 28, 1887. He was assigned to Bat. D, 325th F. A., when he entered the army at Camp Zachary Taylor, Sept. 21, 1917, and on June 29, 1918, he was advanced to corporal. He returned from foreign service in France Feb. 15, 1919, and was discharged at Camp Sherman, Ohio, March 1, 1919.

Mohler, Ray.

Molino, Albert, son of ——— and Antoinette Molino, was born in Kokomo, Ind. On June 1, 1918, he enlisted in Kokomo and was with the medical department in France at Camp Hospital No. 26. He was discharged after having served more than one year.

Molino, Joseph, son of ——— and Antoinette Molino, entered the army at Kokomo, Ind.

Montgomery, Charles Bernard, was born at Shoals, Ind. He was placed in the limited service at the age of thirty years and served in Co. D, Fifth Regiment, 161st Depot Brigade. His discharge was issued at Camp Grant, Ill., Dec. 13, 1918.

Molach, Samuel, enlisted in Kokomo and for a brief period was attached to Co. E.

Moon, Don Pardee (19), son of Barnabas C. and Ella P. Bennett Moon, was born in Kokomo, Ind., April 18, 1894. He graduated from the Kokomo High School in 1912, and having been recommended for appointment by U. S. Senator Benjamin F. Shively, he was admitted to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. He was graduated number four in the class of 1916 and commissioned ensign. From the very first he exhibited marked ability and was promoted until he became lieutenant, senior grade, U. S. N. He was on the battleships "Alabama" and "Rhode Island" until the "Arizona" was launched. On this, the greatest ship in the American Navy, he was radio officer and broadside battery officer, successively, and during the war he served as assistant in gunnery and plotting room officer. The Arizona was ordered to France to accompany the President on his return voyage to America in July, 1919, but owing to an emergency call for a battleship in the Near East, it was ordered to the Mediterranean and proceeded to Smyrna, where she remained for a month in case of trouble in southeastern Europe; then the Arizona returned to the United States.

Moon, Joseph Emerson, son of Jesse and Frances L. Moon, entered the army at Kokomo, Ind., April 26, 1918. He was transferred from Camp Zachary Taylor to Camp Sheridan, Ala., and appointed cook instructor, attached to the First Provisional Co., Development Battalion. He received his discharge at Camp Zachary Taylor in January, 1919.

Mooney, Robert S. (92), son of James E. and Sarah A. Forrer Mooney, was born Sept. 14, 1896. On Sept. 5, 1917, he went to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., and at the end of three months he was transferred to Camp Shelby, Miss., and remained there for thirteen months. While in France, Corporal Mooney was stationed at St. Lucas, and attached to the Fifty-second Guard Co. He reached home again Aug. 16, 1919.

Moore, Lewis Douglas (43), son of Ed S. and Georgianna Scott Moore, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Dec. 18, 1897. He was graduated from the local high school in 1916 and entered Purdue University the following September. On July 15, 1918, he enlisted in the artillery branch of the service and was sent to Fort Sheridan, Ill. Later he was transferred to Fortress Monroe, where on Jan. 5, 1919, he was graduated from the C. A. O. R. C. as a second lieutenant and placed in the five-year reserves. He will graduate from Purdue in the civil engineering department in June, 1920.

Moore, Bruce Victor (66), son of Harles Oscar and Effie Trees Moore, was born in Howard Co., Ind., in 1891. He graduated from the Kokomo High School in 1910; Indiana University, A. B., 1914; A. M., 1917. He was doing graduate work on a research scholarship at Columbia University when he enlisted in the army Feb. 1, 1918. He was assigned to the Psychological Co. No. 1, M. O. T. G., Chickamauga Park, Ga.; later he was sent to the Walter Reed General Hospital, Washington, D. C., and commissioned second lieutenant. On Nov. 9, 1918, he was ordered to the U. S. Sargeant, Len M. (49), son of J. W. and Mary B. Sargeant, was born in Cass Co., Ind., June 15, 1897. Just two months after his enlistment, July 6, 1917, he went to France; two weeks of this period were spent at Fort Thomas, Ky., and six weeks at Syracuse, N. Y., where he was trained intensively in infantry tactics with Co. K, Ninth U. S. Infantry, a regiment with a long record of military honors. The Second Division, to which the Ninth was assigned, was awarded the "Palm of Greatest Achievements," composed as it was of Marines and Regular Army troops; it helped save Paris, reduce St. Mihiel, rescue Rheims and take Sedan. The Second Division was used for building railroads, loading coal, erecting barracks, and in the meantime getting whatever intensive military training that could be gained. In March, 1918, they went into the trenches on the Meuse near Verdun; next they were in the Somme region; they were at Chateau Thierry in June, and next at Belleau Woods; they were on the Marne and at Soissons. Corporal Sargeant was "over the top" nine times, and the remarkable thing about it all is, that he came out of the war without a "scratch." He received his honorable discharge in March, 1919.

and wounded in the right knee by shrapnel, which kept him in Base Hospital No. 5 at Toul for three weeks. After the armistice went into effect he went with the Army of Occupation to Luxemburg, and to the Rhineland as a member of the 409th Telegraph Battalion. It was his duty while in active service to string wires and keep them in repair from the advanced positions to regimental headquarters. This was hazardous work, as the line men were under almost constant fire from the enemy. He returned to the States and was mustered out April 28, 1919, at Camp Grant, Ill.

Waggaman, Ned Marvin (50), son of D. H. and Nettie Helsley Waggaman, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Feb. 3, 1896. Before entering the army May 3, 1918, he had finished three years in high school. After training at Camp Zachary Taylor, he was sent to France with Bat. F, 325th F. A., Eighty-fourth Division.

Wagner, George Frederick (40), son of Jacob and Catherine Wagner, was born in Howard Co., Ind., March 23, 1895. Entering the army at Kokomo, Ind., March 29, 1918, he was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. In April, 1918, he was sent to Camp Upton, L. I., and in May he sailed for France. The latter part of June he went on the firing line with Co. E, 111th Infantry, Twenty-eighth (Keystone) Division. In August, 1918, he was promoted to corporal. Although wounded in the shoulder on Aug. 11, 1918, he was soon back on the firing line. He went "over the top" nine times.

Wagner, Macy, a captain in overseas service, received his discharge at Camp Sherman, Ohio, in August, 1919.

Waisner, George B.

Waisner, Walter Gray (77), son of William and Louise Gray Waisner, was born in Kokomo, Ind., May 5, 1894. He married Mayme Dugas Patmore. Entering the army at Kokomo, he was attached to Co. H, Sixty-seventh Infantry, Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala. His discharge was issued at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Jan. 28, 1919.

Waits, David, son of Mason B. and Josephine Waits, was born in Howard Co., Ind., March 10, 1895. He married Mary O'Desia. He enlisted in Co. E, of Kokomo, in March, 1917, but in June he was transferred to Bat. B, 150th F. A., Forty-second "Rainbow" Division. On Oct. 17, 1917, he received his discharge at Camp Mills, L. I., N. Y.

Waldridge, William Green, was born June 19, 1887. He enlisted in Co. E, Third Regiment, July 4, 1917.

Waldo, George Emerson, was born in Winchester, Ind. He was twenty-two years of age when he joined the S. A. T. C. at Purdue University, October-December, 1918.

Walker, Charles Waldo (6), son of John R. and Lulu Arnett Walker, was born in Kokomo, Ind., in 1896. He spent three years in high school. On April 28, 1917, he enlisted at Logansport, Ind., after being refused in Kokomo. He was mustered into service at Fort Thomas, Ky., and on May 31 was transferred to Fort Benjamin Harrison; then on September 12 he was moved to Fort Sheridan, Ill.; on Nov. 2 he was ordered to Camp Zachary Taylor, where he remained until April 10, 1918, when he was transferred to Camp Gordon, Ga.; Camp Sheridan, Ala., was the last camp where he was on duty, and he remained there until he was discharged, Feb. 20, 1919, with the rank of sergeant. Part of this period of enlistment he was with the medical department of the Sixty-seventh Infantry.

Walker, Charley, enlisted in Co. E, and after training at Camp Shelby, Miss., sailed for France in October, 1918.

Walker, Harry M., son of Scott R. and Emma Laura Cook Walker, was born near Galveston, Ind., and graduated from the high school there in 1911. On June 8, 1918, he enlisted in the infantry and received his first training in that branch of service at Syracuse, N. Y., where for two weeks he was on duty as a member of Co. M, Twenty-second Infantry; then he went to Camp Merritt, N. J., where he was attached to the 325th G. and F. with work at camp headquarters. On Aug. 8, 1918, he was promoted to sergeant. Dec. 28, 1918, he went to Camp Sherman, Ohio, and he received his discharge there Jan. 5, 1919.

Walker, J. Harold (90), son of Scott R. and Emma Laura Cook Walker, graduated from the high school at Galveston, Ind., and then taught for two years at Jewell in Howard County. He enlisted in the navy as a second class seaman, where he received three months of training; then he went to sea as a second class quartermaster, and made three trips to France in the transport service. In January, 1919, he was recommended for a commission, and in the following February he received this honor. He was then placed on duty in the Bureau of Navigation, Washington, D. C., where he was commissioned in the regulars and raised to lieutenant, junior grade. Later he was sent to the municipal ferry, New York, N. Y.

Walker, Luther, was born in Kentucky. On July 19, 1917, he enlisted in Kokomo, Ind., and until Oct. 13, 1917, he was on duty at East Chicago, Ill.; then he went to Hattiesburg, Miss., where he remained until June 4, 1918, when he entrained for Camp Merritt, N. J. On June 24, 1918, he arrived in Liverpool, England. He was on the firing line at Chateau Thierry for six days, July 22-28, and on Aug. 7 he went "over the top" when the Americans began their drive on Amiens. In September he was at St. Mihiel, and later he was on the Meuse-Argonne front. On Oct. 10 he was wounded in the knee, and for two months he was confined to a hospital. He was the largest man in his company, tipping the scales at 240 pounds. At the time of his discharge, Jan. 31, 1919, he was attached to the Eleventh Co., Third Battalion, 158th Depot Brigade, Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Walker, Robert E. (83), son of Alex. and Mary L. McKibben Walker, was born in Cass Co., Ind., Jan. 7, 1887. He was mustered into the army at Fort Thomas, Ky., Aug. 11, 1917, and sailed from New York, Nov. 23, 1917. For ten months he remained in England; then he went to France with the Ninety-second Aero Squadron (British Army) and saw two months of active service. He returned to New York Dec. 4, 1918, and was given his discharge Dec. 22, 1918.

Walker, William W., was born in Cass Co., Ind. He was twenty-nine years of age when he entered the army. He was a member of the 105th Casual Co., but at the time his discharge was issued Feb. 13, 1919, he was attached to the Fifth Co., Twenty-ninth Battalion, 158th Depot Brigade, Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Wall, Omer Odell (67), son of William W. and Laura Baker Wall, was born in Elwood, Ind., March 12, 1898. He enlisted in the service at Kokomo, Ind., July 2, 1917, and was promoted to corporal in Co. E, 152nd Infantry; later he served in the Third Casual Company.

Walter, Albert C.

Walter, Philip Coffin, son of Clark J. and Edna Coffin Walter, was born in Kokomo, Ind., July 11, 1895. In 1915 he graduated from high school, and at the time he enlisted in the army, he was a Junior at Indiana University. On May 9, 1918, he was sworn in at Fort Thomas, Ky. He was ordered to the ordnance supply school at Camp Hancock, Ga., for ten weeks of intensive training; then he received his overseas equipment and sailed for France in a casual company July 31, 1918. He was placed in a French Depot located at Noisy les Sec (Seine et Oise). His work consisted of conveying French machine guns to the American forces at the front in the Verdun and Toul sectors; such work took him to many parts of France. He sailed for the U. S. March 12, 1919, and was discharged April 8, 1919. As he was on detached service with nine other soldiers looking after American orders, he was not connected with any company or division.

Ward, Donald (80), son of O. C. and Catherine Pickrel Ward, was born at Franklin, Ind., April 13, 1895. He attended high school two years. Entering the army at Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 28, 1918, he was assigned to the motor mechanics department at Valparaiso, Ind., and was later transferred to Fort Sheridan, Ill. He received his foreign service equipment Nov. 4, 1918, and on Nov. 10 he was assigned the U. S. S. "Sibony," which was to sail for France. Sailing orders were cancelled Nov. 12, 1918, and the ship proceeded to Newport News, Va. From there he went to Camp Lee, Va., where he remained until Jan. 27, 1919, when he was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., to receive his discharge Feb. 6, 1919. He had been a member of Co. B, Eighth Division Motor Supply Train.

Ward, David Everett, served in the navy at the Great Lakes Station. He was released from active duty soon after the cessation of hostilities, Nov. 11, 1918.

Warfield, Ezra M.

Warman, Leo Paul, was born May 29, 1902. His service in the navy began July 22, 1918. He was a member of Co. G, Second Regiment.

Ward, Mansfield, was born at Hodgenville, Ky. He was twenty-four years old when he entered the army. He served in Co. B, Third Development Battalion. He received his discharge at Camp Grant, Ill., Jan. 3, 1919.

Warner, Tod Otto, son of Ambrose and Pearl Warner, was born in Kokomo, Ind., March 9, 1900. He enlisted in the army in March, 1917, and received notice to report at Fort Sheridan, Ill., on April 13, 1917. On July 13, 1918, he left the United States with thirteen men from Kokomo who were attached to the Thirteenth Engineers. They landed in France on Aug. 13, 1918. He served as a night watchman, nurse and railroad builder. He received his discharge in the summer of 1919.

Warner, William H., son of John A. and Susan Jones Warner, was born at Logansport, Ind., Nov. 29, 1875. On July 1, 1917, he enlisted in the army; he entrained from Camp Sheridan, Ala., in May, 1918, with the 136th Infantry, Medical Department. He returned from France and received his discharge in May, 1919.

Warnock, Armen Joseph (54), son of Thomas M. and Cora Alice Reeder Warnock, was born April 20, 1899, in Howard Co., Ind. He is a graduate of the high school at Converse, Ind. For two months he was attached to the S. A. T. C. at Wabash College.

Warnock, Chester C. (17), was adopted by J. E. and Eva Warden Warnock when he was eight months of age. He was born at Fairmount, Ind., Sept. 30, 1902. Before he enlisted in the army, June 24, 1918, he had completed two years of work in the high school at Greentown, Ind. Upon his arrival at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., he was ordered to Camp Crane, Allentown, Pa., where he was given a short course of intensive training in the medical department. His overseas duties were in one of the base hospitals in France. He returned to Greentown, Ind., May 11, 1919, the day following his discharge from the army.

Warnock, Cletis.

Warnock, Otis Elden (46), son of D. Elmore (Eli) and Emma Larowe Warnock, was born Jan. 19, 1896. On Sept. 21, 1917, he was inducted into service at Kokomo, Ind., and sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.; later he transferred to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Texas, and then to Camp McArthur, Texas. The latter part of May, 1918, he landed in France with Bat. E, Twenty-first F. A. Upon his return to the States, he was sent to Fort Sheridan, Ill., and was in the hospital there recovering from the effects of an attack of pneumonia which he suffered while in France. It was expected that he would receive his discharge early in September, 1919.

Warwick, Roy (Ray), son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Warwick, was discharged from the navy in November, 1919, after having spent four years in the service, two of which were overseas. His last assignment was with the U. S. SS, "Ingraham."

Washington, Ernest Paul, son of Thomas and Clara Golding Washington, was born in Kokomo, Ind., May 23, 1894. On March 29, 1918, he, with eighty-six other recruits, left Kokomo, Ind., for Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. There he was assigned to the Eleventh Co., Third Battalion, 159th Depot Brigade. He left the Louisville cantonment May 24, 1918, for Washington Barracks, D. C., and after assignment to Co. F, Second Replacement Regiment, he embarked for France, June 15, 1918, from Hoboken, N. J. Upon his arrival overseas he was stationed at Angers in July, 1918, with the Fifth Provisional Co., 116th Engineers, Forty-first Division. Six months later he left St. Nazaire on the German liner "Mercury," which arrived in New York Dec. 20, 1918. On Jan. 6, 1919, he was discharged at Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Watkins, Charles R. (17), son of James T. and Dama E. Campbell Watkins, was born in Kokomo, Ind., July 10, 1896. He was a student in high school three years. On March 6, 1918, he enlisted in the army at Kokomo, Ind., and until June 27, 1918, he was stationed at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo.; then he was ordered to Kelly Field, Texas. July 17, 1918, he left for Dorr Field, Arcadia, Fla., where he was on duty repairing airplane wings until Jan. 28, 1919. On Feb. 8, 1919, he received his discharge at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

Watkins, Ernest Monroe (74), son of John W. and Myrtle Austin Watkins, was born in New London, Ind., July 11, 1897. He was in high school for three and one-half years. He enlisted in the navy at Indianapolis, Ind., May 6, 1918, as an electrician. At the end of three months of training he was rated machinists' mate, second class. His entire period of service was at Great Lakes, Ill.

Watkins, Marshall Reid (52), son of James T. and Dama E. Campbell Watkins, was born at Normanda, Ind., Dec. 13, 1889. His military training began Sept. 21, 1917, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., and before going to France he spent some time at the firing range at West Point, Ky., with the 325th F. A. He was also given six weeks of intensive training on the range at Bordeaux, and was ready to go to the front when the armistice was signed. He sailed from a French port Feb. 2, 1919, and reached Newport News, Va., Feb. 15. His discharge was granted at Camp Sherman, Ohio, March 1, 1919.

Watkins, Russell A.

Watson, Frederick (65), son of Isaac and Sarah Watson, was born in Dover, N. J., Nov. 9, 1891. When he entered the army at Kokomo, Ind., June 27, 1918, he was sent to Camp Sherman, Ohio. On Sept. 10, 1918, he sailed from Camp Mills, L. I., and was stationed at As-

Watson, Ivan Dale (5) was born near Greentown, Ind., May 3, 1891, but he graduated from the high school at New London, Ind. He was one of the first men to volunteer for training in the mechanical school at Purdue University. He enlisted April 27, 1918, and sailed on the "Louisville" from Hoboken, N. J., the first week in July with Co. C, 315th Ammunition Train, which later became the First Corps Artillery. After nine days in England he crossed the channel to Cherbourg and saw service at Argentine, Le Mans, Orleans, St. Nazaire, Toul and St. Mihiel. His organization was cited for bravery in the last battle. Because he was confined to a hospital with influenza when the armistice was signed, he was transferred to Co. A, 218th Infantry, stationed near Dijon, France. He was mustered out at Camp Sherman, O., June 10, 1919.

Watson, Lewis Everett (1), son of James Franklin and Rosetta Jarvis Watson, was born at Jerome, Howard Co., Ind. Feb. 29, 1891. On May 21, 1918, he went from Kokomo, Ind., to Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky. He also received instruction at Washington, D. C., and on a rifle range in Virginia. He returned from France about July, 1919.

Watson, Roscoe.

Watson, William Harrison (65), embarked for France from Camp Mills, L. I., Aug. 27, 1918, with Co. D, 324th Regiment, Eighty-fourth Division. He had been in training at Camp Sherman, Ohio, beginning June 27, 1918. After reaching France he was transferred to Co. H, 393rd Infantry, and was stationed at Serfontaines.

Watts, Taylor (78), son of William and Alberta Moore Watts, was born in Louisville, Ky., June 29, 1894. On Aug. 24, 1918, he was sent to Camp Dodge, Iowa, and became a member of Co. N, Second Development Battalion. His discharge was dated Dec. 10, 1918.

Waymire, Ray Verlin (86), son of David M. and Anna J. Waymire, was born at Remington, Ind., July 11, 1900. As he was only seventeen when he volunteered, it was necessary for him to have the written consent of his mother before he could be accepted in the army. This rule having been complied with, he was accepted at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and two weeks later he was sent to Camp Humphreys, Va., where he remained for seven weeks before entraining for Camp Merritt, N. J., to board a transport. He landed in Brest Sept. 9, 1918, and was sent to a rest camp four miles out, where there was so much water on the ground, straw had to be laid before the pup tents could be put up. After remaining there two weeks, he was sent to Camp Crona, near St. Nazaire, which was perhaps the largest railroad camp in the world. He was kept busy driving trucks, cars, doing surveying and working at headquarters in the office. The first leave he had secured in thirteen months was in May, 1919; then he was off for three days in Paris. He was still on duty in the late summer of 1919.

Weaver, Charles V., son of Mahon and Martha Weaver, was born in Pulaski Co., Ind., in 1892. He enlisted in the United States Marines at Logansport, Ind., and from June, 1918, until the close of the war, he was on the front lines serving as a truck driver in Bat. C, Fifty-fourth Artillery. He took part in some of the most severe fighting of the war and had many narrow escapes from death. Once his truck was blown to pieces; at another time he was wounded in the neck by shrapnel, and he was sent to a hospital twice. On March 12, 1919, he arrived in the States and received his discharge at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

Weaver, Edward William (46).

Webb, Earl McKinley (20), son of Charles and Ora B. Webb, was born in Macon Co., Ill., in 1892. He moved with his parents to Howard Co., Ind. He graduated from the high school at New London, Ind., and spent two years in Earlham College. On April 26, 1918, he was sent from Kokomo to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.; from there he went to Camp Greendale, Ga.; then to Camp Greene, N. C., and in August, 1918, he sailed to France. He was stationed at the U. S. Base Hospital No. 54. A year was spent overseas; then he returned to the States and was mustered out in August, 1919.

Weber, George Blasius, son of Henry and Minnie Howinger Weber, was born in Channah, Ohio, in October, 1889. He entered the army at Kokomo, Ind., and went overseas with the Fifth Co., Seventh Mechanical Regiment, Ordnance Casual Section, stationed at St. Lo, France.

Weber, Ray J., entered the army in May, 1918, and was discharged the following September at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. He was a member of Bat. B, Eighty-fourth Division.

Weddel, Floyd Oliver (51), son of Henry Lacy and Laura May Weddel, was born in Columbus, Ind., May 12, 1898. He was a member of the S. A. T. C. at Indiana University from October to December, 1918.

Weese, Marion Clinton (72), son of Theodore W. and Dora E. Swisher Weese, was born in Vermillion Co., Ill., July 19, 1892. On May 6, 1918, he began his army service when he left Kokomo, Ind., for Fort Benjamin Harrison. On July 21 he entrained for an eastern port in order to go overseas. With Co. F, Twenty-second Engineers, he went on the firing line on the Marne River, Sept. 25, 1918. From Feb. 25, 1919, until his return home in July, he was stationed at Oia Field, seven miles from Paris. He received his discharge at Camp Merritt, N. J., late in July, 1919.

Weese, Theodore Thomas, son of Theodore W. and Dora E. Swisher Weese, was born in Montgomery Co., Ind., Jan. 19, 1887. He enlisted in the Q. M. C. at Kokomo, Ind., Aug. 29, 1917. He was first attached to Co. D, 113th Cavalry; later he was a member of the 113th Remount Supply Train. He received his discharge at Camp Shelby, Miss., Feb. 11, 1918, because of physical disability.

Weese, Pearl Todhunter (26), son of Cassius S. and Dondena Todhunter Weese, was born Feb. 16, 1897, near Kokomo, Ind. He was a student in high school two years. On May 24, 1918, he enlisted in the Coast Artillery at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. The three months following his enlistment were spent at Fort Totten, New York, N. Y. His overseas equipment was given to him at Fort Hamilton, N. Y. He was selected with other picked men for Bat. B, Sixth Anti-aircraft Battalion, a branch of the artillery service. On Sept. 25, 1918, he left Hoboken, and after a voyage of twelve days, following the northerly route and passing to the north of Ireland to avoid submarines, he landed at Liverpool, England, and on Oct. 10 reached Havre, France. He was sent at once to the anti-aircraft school at Fort Destains near Paris. A few days before the signing of the armistice he received his front line equipment. He sailed from Brest December 30, and was mustered out of the service at Camp Sherman, Ohio, Feb. 27, 1919. Before leaving Brest he was injured by barbed wire and upon his arrival at the base hospital at Camp Merritt, N. J., he was detained until he had recovered.

After enlisting at Fort Wayne, Ind., in May, 1917, he received training at Fort Thomas, Ky.; Fort Riley, Kansas; Camp Logan, Texas; Camp Doniphan, Okla., and Camp Mills, L. I. He saw service in France. He was promoted to corporal and then to sergeant. He was discharged July 9, 1919, at Camp Taylor, Ky.

Woodward, Frederick Lawrence, son of Stephen Vincent and Ann Woodward, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 8, 1895. On March 11, 1918, he enlisted in the army at Kokomo, Ind., and after his arrival at Camp Greenleaf, Ga., he was assigned to Co. G, Thirty-ninth Infantry, Fourth Division. He was wounded twice during his strenuous service on the firing line. One of his wounds was in the neck, which he received while fighting in the Argonne Forest. When he returned to the States the hearing in one ear was entirely gone. At the time of his discharge at Camp Custer, Mich., March 11, 1919, he was in the convalescent center.

Woodward, Francis J.

Woody, Marion Holmes, son of Horace G. and Alice Holmes Woody, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 19, 1887. He graduated from the high school at Greencastle, Ind., and in 1911 he received his degree from DePauw University. On April 11, 1918, he enlisted in the navy at Cincinnati, Ohio. He served as a second class seaman in the naval reserve.

Wooldridge, Bryan (41), son of T. E. and Mary A. Wooldridge, was born in Taylor Tp., Howard Co., Ind., March 9, 1897. In 1914 he graduated from the high school in Kokomo, Ind., and the following year he attended Indiana University. In February, 1918, he enlisted in the coast artillery. Sergeant Wooldridge served in France.

Wooldridge, William Green, was born at Tipton, Ind., June 19, 1887. He enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., June 4, 1918, and was attached to Co. E, Third Engineers. He was discharged Aug. 19, 1919, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

Wooley, David W. (81), son of George R. and Mary E. Wooley, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 28, 1889. On Sept. 4, 1918, he left for the national army cantonment at Louisville, Ky., and remained in training there until he received his discharge, Jan. 6, 1919. He was attached to the Fifth Co., Second Battalion.

Wooley, Algie M. (39), son of James E. and Adelaide Wooley, was born in Ervin Tp., Howard Co., Ind., Oct. 26, 1891. After his enlistment at Fort Wayne, Ind., he was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor and Fort Leavenworth. His overseas service began in March, 1918, with Co. B, Seventh U. S. Engineers. While serving as a bridge builder on the firing line, he was struck by shrapnel, and was sent to a hospital in October, 1918. On Aug. 4, 1919, his discharge was issued at Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Wooley, Paul Vern (22), son of Oscar K. and Anna Wooley, is a graduate of the high school at Galveston, Ind., with the Class of 1911. In 1915 he completed the course at Denison College. He married Lola DeMoss, who died in 1918. He was principal of the schools at Summitville, Ind., but resigned and enlisted in the army at Elwood, Ind., in April, 1918. His first training was as a motor truck repairman at Purdue University. In July, 1918, he landed in France, and was on duty near Bordeaux as corporal and clerk of Co. B, 315th Ammunition Train. While with the Army of Occupation in Germany, he was billeted at Berncastle; later he was placed on detached service so that he might attend art school and study French in Paris.

Workman, Van (97), son of J. F. and Isola Workman, was born in Brownstown, Ill., April 13, 1898. He served at Camp Scott, Chicago, Ill., in the American Red Cross from Oct. 19 to Dec. 1, 1918.

Workman, William W. (16), son of J. F. and Isola Workman, was born at Brownstown, Ill., June 30, 1895. After graduating from the Kokomo High School in 1913, he attended Indiana University one year. Soon after entering the army he was married at Louisville, Ky., to Margaret Leach, of Kokomo, Ind. He first enlisted in the O. T. C. at Fort Benjamin Harrison in May, 1917, and in August he received an honorable discharge. In less than a month, or on Sept. 5, 1917, he volunteered to go with the first increment sent to Camp Zachary Taylor for the National Army. He went overseas with Bat. F, 325th F. A., Eighty-fourth Division, and returning home in February, 1919. He was discharged March 1, 1919.

Worman, Leo. Wright, Clarence. Wright, Jay F.

Wright, Lawrence M. (53), son of F. R. and Almeda Wright, attended high school three years. Enlisting in the medical department of the army at Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 24, 1918, he was sent to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.; from there he was transferred to the main hospital, Kelly Field, Texas; on Nov. 10, 1918, he was placed in the aviation general supply depot, medical section, Little Rock, Ark. He was discharged at Camp Taylor in August, 1919.

Wright, Lex Carlton, was born July 1, 1888. He enlisted at Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 20, 1917, and was discharged Feb. 27, 1919, after serving in the machine gun section of the Forty-eighth Infantry, Twentieth Division.

Wright, Walden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. A. Wright, was in the company of men sent to Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 1, 1918. He was sent to Rolling Prairie, Ind., advanced to chief maintenance, and discharged Dec. 21, 1918.

Wyatt, Faye M., son of Frank and Anna Bostoff Wyatt, was born March 9, 1897, at Kokomo, Ind. He enlisted April 10, 1917, the same week war was declared, and was on duty at Fort Dupont, Del., until he was discharged, Dec. 6, 1918.

Wyatt, John N. (7).

Wyrick, Bertie Roy, was inducted into the service and was discharged while located at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Xanadame-trauloulas, Anthony. Yader, James.

Yates, James William, was born at Burlington, Ind. He was twenty-six years of age when he entered the army. He was a member of Co. M, Sixty-seventh Infantry. Corporal Yates was discharged Jan. 28, 1919.

Yager, Albert (13).

Yager, Harold Frank, was eighteen years of age when he enlisted in the navy at Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 2, 1918. He served more than a year.

Yager, Thomas William (2), son of Mrs. Madie Moore Yager, was born in Louisville, Ky., Aug. 15, 1895. In April, 1917, he enlisted in the marine corps at Chicago, Ill., and was sent to Paris Island, S. C., where he was promoted to first sergeant. On Sept. 18, 1918, he was married to Ruth DeFord Raley at Savannah, Ga.

Yarno, Jules, son of Morris and Clarice Malmontes Yarno, was born June 9, 1893, at Ransart, Belgium. He was living in Kokomo, Ind., with his parents, when he enlisted in the medical corps June 5, 1917. He was attached to Base Hospital No. 17 while serving overseas. He was discharged May 13, 1919.

Yearling, Carl George (10), son of Burnett H. and Carrie Emeline Theobald Yearling, was born at Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 12, 1891. He is a graduate of the high school at Marion, Ind., but he had attended high school in Kokomo over three years. On Dec. 18, 1912, he married Clara Helen Havens. He was commissioned second lieutenant at the first O. T. C. at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Aug. 15, 1917, and immediately began his work with the supply company of the 336th Infantry, Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. On Oct. 1, 1917, he was assigned to the engineering branch of the motor transport division, Q. M. C., Washington, D. C. He was promoted to first lieutenant Feb. 18, 1918, and was assistant to the officer in charge of enlisted personnel. On Oct. 31, 1918, the motor transport service became the motor transport corps. He was discharged Oct. 31, 1919.

Yost, Ernest C. Young, Arthur (92).

Young, Charles Arthur, was born June 24, 1896. He enlisted in Lafayette, Ind., in May, 1917. He went to France with Bat. C, 150th F. A., Forty-second "Rainbow" Division, which was mobilized in New York just before leaving for overseas duty in October, 1917. His first training was at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. His division went on the firing line in February, 1918, and took part in some of the most severe fighting of the war. He was also in Germany with the Army of Occupation.

Young, Charles McKinley.

Young, Ernest Philip (27), son of Peter and Jennie Young, was born in Howard Co., Ind., Oct. 4, 1889. He attended high school two years. On July 28, 1917, he enlisted at New Castle, Ind. He was attached to the 238th Machine Gun Battalion, Regimental Infirmary, Medical Corps, and as first sergeant served in the Provisional Base Hospital No. 1, Unit No. 3, Mesves Hospital Center, France.

Young, Harold (92).

Young, Generous Noble, son of Isaac and Mary Young, was born in Howard County, Ind., Oct. 26, 1901. He enlisted in the army at Kokomo, Ind., March 15, 1917, and after reporting to Fort Thomas, Ky., he was sent to Fort Douglas, Ariz.; then he was transferred to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and later he was sent to Chattanooga, Tenn., where he remained on duty until discharged.

Young, Orville Earl, son of Sherman and Cora West Young, was sent to Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., April 26, 1918. He was also on duty at Camp Knox, Ky., as cook, attached to Co. D, 170th F. A., Eighty-fourth Division.

Young, Robert Thomas, was born Dec. 21, 1873. He served in the ordnance department in France.

Young, William D., son of Robert and Minerva Schaffer Young, was born at Carey, Ohio, March 10, 1897. He enlisted at Kokomo, Ind., May 7, 1917, and was sent to Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he served as first sergeant in Co. B, Motor Transport Repair Train No. 304, until he was mustered out Feb. 20, 1919.

Younkin, Jay, son of John and Cordelia Younkin (both deceased), was born in Russiaville, Ind., Feb. 29, 1896. He married Gertrude Lewis in October, 1919. He belonged to the infantry and was with the American forces in France. He was discharged April 24, 1919.

Zambito, Domenico (98), was born in Siciliana, Italy, in 1890. He entered the army in Kokomo, Ind., July 26, 1917, and was in training at Fort Thomas and Camp Gordon 25 months. He was discharged Sept. 15, 1919.

Zambito, Leonardo, is a native of Italy, but served in the war as a registrant from Howard Co., Ind.

Zanchi, Bertino, was born in Italy, but entered the army while living in Kokomo, Ind.

Zerfas, Fleet.

Zetterman, John Sigfried (69), son of Eric and Ingeborg Person Zetterman, was born at Munkfors, Sweden. He had been living in Kokomo, Ind., with his brother, Carl E. Zetterman, for several years, but when the World War began, he enlisted in the Canadian Army at Barrie, Ontario, Aug. 10, 1914, just six days after Great Britain declared war. He arrived in France with the first Canadian contingent Feb. 12, 1915, and on April 25, 1915, he received his first wound while on the firing line at Langemark, Belgium. He was sent to No. 12 Stationary Hospital, Rouen, France. His second wound was received while fighting in Caurelette, Picardy, in September, 1916. In June, 1918, he was gassed so severely that he was sent to a rest camp in England. After the armistice was signed he returned to Canada to receive his final discharge papers, Jan. 25, 1919. He had been a member of the Fourth Overseas Battalion, C. E. F. He was given a land grant by the Canadian government and has the honor of serving longer in the World War than any other Howard County soldier.

Zimmerman, Robert Frazee (14), son of William and Nellie Frazee Zimmerman, was born in Kokomo, Ind., Jan. 22, 1894. He married Salome Dumbald, a hospital nurse whom he met while on duty at the post hospital, Fort Thomas, Ky., where he was assigned when he volunteered Dec. 16, 1917, at Kokomo, Ind.

Zimmerman, Carl Arthur, was born at Mt. Vernon, Ind., March 6, 1898. When he enlisted July 5, 1918, at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., he was assigned to the Q. M. C. Dept. at Camp Joseph E. Johnston. He was later at Camps Hill and Mills before going to France. He was promoted from private to corporal and then to sergeant. He was stationed at Brest, Bajolles-sur-Meuse, Villiers le Sec, Rimancourt, St. Aignou and St. Nazaire. On July 7, 1919, his discharge was issued at Camp Mills, N. Y.

Zellner, Athol, was born in Howard Co., Ind., Aug. 16, 1895. On June 28, 1917, he entered the army at Muncie, Ind., and served with Co. G, Second Ind. Infantry, at East Chicago, Ind. He was transferred to Camp Shelby, Miss., and assigned to the Seventh Co., 152nd U. S. Infantry. His discharge was dated Dec. 5, 1917.

INDIANA STATE MILITIA

COMPANY D, THIRD INFANTRY

Company D was organized by John B. Tate, after Co. E, Kokomo's military organization, had been federalized. On Sunday, Dec. 16, 1917, following their physical examination by Dr. E. M. Shenk, the men assembled in the circuit court room, where they were sworn in by Col. Charles A. Garrard. The officers were: Captain Warren R. Voorhis, who served until he moved to New York City, when his place was taken by John B. Tate. First Lieutenant George L. Davis resigned in order to give more of his time to the Liberty Loan campaigns, and he was succeeded by H. C. Davis, Jr. C. V. Haworth was elected 2nd Lt., but resigned to take charge of the buzzer classes which were organized by the war department for conscripted men, and he was succeeded by Mark Brown. When Lieutenant Brown entered the O. T. C. at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky., Tom L. Knipe was commissioned 2nd Lt. Duke's Hall, which was located on the south side of the public square, was used for an armory, and here the boys met on Friday evenings for drill. Special drills were given on Wednesday evenings and on Sunday afternoons. The men were equipped with uniforms and guns, and were subject to the call of the Governor to go wherever needed in the State of Indiana. Also since the men were all of military age they could have been federalized and become a part of the National Army. Although the company was never called for active service, it stood ready to do its duty whatever that might be. The 2nd Battalion, to which Company D belonged, met for field maneuvers at Fort Wayne, Ind., July 4, 1918; at Marion, Ind., the first Sunday in August; and on Labor Day at Kokomo, Ind. At the latter place exhibition drills were given on the high school grounds and field maneuvers on the golf links at the Country Club. On April 23, 1919, the company was mustered out by Major Earl McKee.

WAR ACTIVITIES AT HOME

In ancient times an army was supposed to live off the country through which it passed. Xenophon's "Ten Thousand" on its memorable march existed for more than a year in a foreign and hostile land. Caesar on his numerous campaigns compelled the conquered people to supply his army with food. And even in recent times an army has been known to abandon its base of supplies and depend on the surrounding country for a considerable length of time for its support. But in the twentieth century, warfare has become so scientific that no nation can hope to win in a military conflict unless it is able to muster a great army, provisioned and fully equipped with all the modern implements of war. Such a condition requires the closest co-operation of all branches of service, even extending to the civilians, who work in the factories, mines, and on the farms. A never-ending stream of munitions must be brought to the front, and an ample supply of food must be served regularly. A breaking down of the transportation system for a single hour might mean disaster, and for a day would mean defeat.

When the United States entered the war, England, France and Italy were practically exhausted. Their armies had either been defeated or were being gradually worn away. They had been unable to raise sufficient food for the armies and their own people. The submarines had taken a fearful toll of the supply ships that ventured to cross the Atlantic from the western continent. Therefore, the immediate problem which confronted the United States was how to maintain a sufficient supply of food for the home people and at the same time feed the Allies.

Four well-defined lines of action were determined upon by the national government. First, an army must be raised; second, equipment must be supplied; third, food must be produced; and, fourth, money must be furnished. The first measure as proposed by the government was accomplished through the selective draft act and the enforcement of its provisions. The features of this law can best be understood by a study of its application to the county unit, as administered by the county conscription board.

HOWARD COUNTY CONSCRIPTION BOARD

In pursuance of the selective draft act, which was passed by the United States Congress in April, 1917, a conscription board was named for Howard County. Its members were to be composed of the county sheriff, the county clerk, and one additional member, a physician. By virtue of their offices, Omer F. Brown and Charles E. Middleton became members of the board in Howard County, and Dr. Francis A. Shoaf was selected as the third member, as the law required that only two members should be of the same political party. On account of ill health and the press of official duties, Mr. Middleton was forced to resign soon after work had begun, and Don P. Strode was appointed in his stead. Offices were maintained in the court house, where all the official business was transacted, including the registrations and examinations.

It was on June 5, 1917, the date of the first registration, that the real work of the board began. Numbers were drawn at Washington to determine the order in which the men were to appear before the board for examination. In this way each registrant had a serial and an order number. In order to assist the board to pass more intelligently on the merits of each case, all registrants were required to fill out a questionnaire, which in itself was of assistance in making the proper classification. All drafted men were classified according to their physical fitness, the number and kind of dependents, and their occupations. This classification also determined the order in which the men were called to service.

A medical advisory board, composed of Dr. W. H. McClurg and Dr. Omer D. Hutto, was appointed by the government to assist in making physical examinations in special cases, and to make a re-examination where someone felt he had not been properly examined by the local board. If anyone was in need of legal advice as to the steps necessary to obtain an allotment or bonus offered discharged soldiers, a legal advisory committee was delegated by the government to give all necessary assistance free. Members of this board were: William C. Overton, judge of the circuit court, B. C. Moon and Earl B. Barnes. The government also appointed a dental board composed of Dr. A. L. Harter and Dr. W. D. Kirk, who gave free examination and treatment in many cases to the conscripted men whose teeth needed attention.

Anyone who felt that he had not been properly classified, or that it was more essential that he remain at home than go to war, had the right of appeal to the district board located at Laporte, Ind. On the other hand, any citizen who thought the board was too lenient in excusing men from military service could register his complaint with J. A. Kautz, appeal agent for the conscription board, who was appointed by the government to hear such complaints, and send them with his recommendation to the War Department, Washington, D. C. The task of the board was not an enviable one. Its work was not always pleasant, and it required patience and determination to carry out the provisions of the law.

The board was assisted in the discharge of its duties by Mrs. Daisy Strode Applegate, Miss Mabel Atkinson, Mrs. Ruth Ross Herrman, Dr. Arthur Oilar, and Private Maurice Ashly. The following gave their services without remuneration at times when extra help was greatly needed: Miss Sadie Hutner, Miss Helen Ross, Mrs. Allison C. Donnelly and Mrs. George W. Ross. Many citizens, mostly lawyers and teachers, assisted the registrants in preparing the questionnaires. All of these questionnaires were shipped to Washington, D. C., in February, 1919. Soon after the armistice was signed Nov. 11, 1918, the local board was ordered to have its work completed by Dec. 10, 1918, although the time was later extended until January, 1919. In compliance with government orders, the work was brought to a close at the earliest possible time, and all records pertaining to the conscription board were sent to the War Department.

Many interesting and illuminating facts may be gleaned from the official report, which in part is as follows: The problems of naturalization presented themselves from the records of the board and the county clerk. It appeared that there were 250 residents of military age who had not declared their intention to become American citizens. Eighty-one declarations of intention to become citizens had been filed since Nov. 27, 1916, and twenty-one of this number were born in Germany or Austria. During the examinations made by the board it was found that many had filed applications to become citizens, but had never completed necessary steps to that end. On June 5, 1917, there were 3,996 registrations. Of the 740 ordered to entrain, 516 were accepted at camp, forty-nine rejected, and sixty reported delinquent. Four were unclassified. The number of questionnaires forwarded to the district board was 914, and all were returned. Four were not given a physical examination. Of the 1,004 physically examined, forty were placed in the limited service, 659 in the general military service, ninety non-combatants, and twelve in the emergency fleet. Of the forty-two colored men physically examined, thirty-four were placed in the general military service. Those who filled out questionnaires were classified as follows: Class one, 864; class two, 457; class three, 471; class four, 2,979; class five, 1,291. There were 171 marriages after May 18, 1917. Twenty-five men were called before the board and ordered to either fight or work.

WAR MUNITIONS

In carrying out the second step in the war program, the War Department adopted measures to supply the army with all the munitions and equipment necessary for an aggressive campaign. All of the manufacturing industries of the United States were notified to be prepared, wherever possible, to manufacture war materials at the earliest possible moment. Kokomo's manufacturers made immediate preparation for the change, and began to bid on war contract work. With the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce, the local manufacturers kept a representative, Charles Muckenhern, a man of unusual ability, in Washington to secure contracts for their factories. In this he was very successful, and as a result Kokomo's entire circle of industries was kept in steady operation during the war. Deliveries were made so promptly to the War Department, and the goods were of such superior quality, that the local concerns had no trouble in holding their contracts and securing new ones whenever they were needed. Much credit is due those who had the management of these factories in charge, because they not only increased production of war supplies but made Kokomo the second city in the state in the number of manufacturing concerns holding war contracts. Not all the industries making war materials held contracts directly from the Ordnance Department, but secured them through other concerns.

The list of factories and munition products are as follows: Superior Machine Tool Company made shells of various sizes, chiefly 155 M.M. dummy drill projectiles. In addition to these were the 4-inch Stokes trench mortar gas, incendiary and smoke shells, which were the only shells of this size made in America that were used in actual warfare; Connon-McNeal Co., later known as the Liberty Pressed Metal Company, drop incendiary bombs, and rifle screwdrivers; Globe Stove and Range Co., ranges, packing boxes, 6-inch trench mortar shell; Kokomo Steel and Wire Company, steel shell forgings, ingots and barb wire; Kokomo Brass Works, aluminum castings, magnetos, carburetors, and 4-inch trench mortar gas shell projectors; Haynes Automobile Company, motors and transmissions; Apperson Brothers Automobile Company, motors; Pittsburg Plate Glass Company, glass bull's-eye for ships; D. C. Jenkins Glass Company, water glasses, molasses cans and lantern globes; Great Western Pottery and Kokomo Sanitary Manufacturing Company, hospital appliances, faucets and tanks for cantonments; Kokomo Rubber Company, truck tires; Hoosier Iron Works, shell castings; and the Haynes

Six-inch Trench Mortar Shells, made by the Globe Stove and Range Company, Kokomo, Ind.

The picture shows projectiles which were made for guns of various calibers: 37 m. m. gun, 3.8 inch Howitzer, 4.7 inch Howitzer, 5 inch seacoast gun, 6 inch Howitzer, 6 inch seacoast gun, 8 inch Howitzer, 8 inch seacoast gun, 9.2 inch Howitzer, 10 inch seacoast gun, 240 m. m. Howitzer, 12 inch seacoast gun, 12 inch seacoast mortar, 14 inch gun, and 16 inch gun. These shells were made by the Superior Machine Tool Company, Kokomo, Ind.

Stellite Company, mirrors, minor operating knives, and tools for making shells. If sworn statements on file in the company's office and testimony of experts on shell production count for anything, it is altogether probable that by the use of stellite, shell production was increased fifty per cent. That being true, it is safe to assume that the end of the war was materially hastened by the use of a Kokomo product. Because of the superior workmanship and prompt delivery of material, the Superior Machine Tool Company was kept working on war orders for a considerable length of time after the armistice was signed. Kokomo's factories were kept running through the war, giving employment to thousands of men and women, and contributing liberally to all war activities. The growth and prosperity of the city was largely due to the wise and efficient management of the business men who were at the head of the industrial and financial institutions of the city. During the entire war there were but two labor disturbances, and these were quickly adjusted. The transition from a war to a peace basis was accomplished without the slightest interruption to business.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION

The third line of action determined upon by the government was the production of more food. Agricultural experts were sent to all parts of the country, lecturing to the farmers and admonishing them of the necessity of increasing the wheat and corn acreage for the coming years. Clubs for the women were organized, and housewives were urged to can their own fruit, as the entire output of factory canned goods would be needed for the army. During the summer of 1917, Miss Clara Edna Berry, teacher of domestic science in the Kokomo High School, conducted a canning school, where correct methods of canning fruit and vegetables were taught. In order to stimulate school gardening, the mayor of the city offered to break lots for those who did not have the means to have it done. War gardens proved to be popular, and during the summers of 1917-18 almost every vacant lot and back yard in the city of Kokomo was under cultivation.

Under the direction of Purdue University a meeting was called at the court house April 7, 1917, for the purpose of discussing ways and means of increasing food production in Howard County. Resolutions were passed strongly recommending that a county organization be formed, having for its purpose the stimulation of food production and the conservation of resources. These were passed when presented by T. A. Hanson, W. E. Grinslade and George Lybrook. After listening to stirring addresses by O. A. Somers, at that time Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, Judge W. C. Overton, George B. Jones and Warren R. Voorhis, the body proceeded to perfect an organization. Following this meeting a great publicity campaign for food conservation was launched. Attractive placards, suggesting the necessity for saving food, were displayed in conspicuous places. Clever slogans touching some phase of conservation were printed on posters and scattered abroad throughout the county by means of the mail and airplane. But the most important factor which constrained the people to conserve food was the department of food conservation. The success of the department in Howard County was assured when Dr. J. R. Morgan was appointed administrator. The task was a difficult one, yet in his characteristic and forceful way he assumed the duties of the office and made a success of it. His report is as follows:

DR. J. R. MORGAN, HOWARD COUNTY FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

When the war with Germany had reached the point where there was a question of the ability of the Allies to hold out against the Central Powers, the United States went into the war to help the Allies and save her own country. It was evident that if Prussia won, America would have to defend her own territory, for the Kaiser had set out to dominate the world. There was begun the building and equipping of a great army and navy.

Congress organized the people in the greatest civilian enterprise by establishing the Food Administration. The man selected as head of this work was the one who had done so much for Belgian relief—Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Hoover built up an organization in each State to take care of and ship all surplus food to the allies. Much was done by eliminating unnecessary meals and eating only those things that were essential. Civilians were required to use a certain amount of substitutes, thereby relieving staple articles for army use. Mondays and Wednesdays were wheatless; Tuesdays and Fridays were meatless; Saturday was porkless, and it was in order to save sugar every day. Public eating houses were limited to four ounces of meat, two ounces of bread, and one-half ounce of butter per person per meal. Barley, oats, buckwheat, and corn products were substituted for wheat products. At first 20% of other flours were to be sold with all wheat flour; then the order came to make it 50%-50%. This order brought forth a protest from those who wanted their breakfast bacon. To enforce such stringent measures, the food administrator was given power to inflict heavy penalties against those who disobeyed. All food handlers were licensed and pledged to support the rules or go out of business. This applied to public eating houses. Private families were reached wholly on patriotic grounds, except that they were required to buy a certain amount of substitute with each purchase. The majority of the people responded heartily to the food restriction measures, and I never heard one objection after the first American blood was shed on foreign soil.

Before the war America used eighty-eight pounds of sugar per capita per annum, but during the war we were restricted to twenty-four pounds per capita.

Dr. Harry E. Barnard of Indianapolis was chosen head of the Food Administration in Indiana, and was so successful in building up an organization in each county that the State was second to none in the nation. His wonderful executive ability, his great earnestness, his quick, unerring judgment, his strong determination, together with his courtesy, won for him the respect and admiration of all the people who worked under him and established for him a record with the national administration. His counsel was sought by Mr. Hoover, and Indiana was cited as an example to other States.

Early in the organization I was notified of my appointment as Federal Food Administrator for Howard County, and I accepted the same, filing an oath to support the constitution of the United States and to enforce the rules of the Food Administration to the best of my ability.

I put my whole soul into the job, neglecting my own business, giving my whole time, and working my own office force without fee or reward. I received a reimbursement from the government for one month of clerk hire—fifty dollars—and from the Council of Defense reimbursement for supplies, $425.15, and one-half pay for stenographer. All other office expenses and clerk hire were paid by me in addition to my personal service, which represents my services to my country and to humanity.

Rules were administered without fear or favor and as pleasantly as possible. At times we waited on from 300 to 1,500 people in the office in a single day, and I wish to thank them for their patience and the way they responded and assisted in the work. I want to thank the people in general for their faithful compliance, and I wish to particularly thank the dealers in food products and the people of the eating houses for the kindly way they accepted the regulations and for the special efforts they made to keep them. As a rule the people accepted the rules gracefully, and all controversies were caused by misunderstandings. One case only was punished for violation and that was hoarding sugar and flour—the supplies were taken and sold and the proceeds given to the Red Cross, and the offender was allowed to make a liberal contribution to the cause. Another case came to my attention, and that was where a party moved from the city and turned in a large store of sugar and flour, showing that he had been hoarding.

I had for my assistants in this great work the following persons, who were enthusiastic, faithful and zealous in the fulfillment of their duties. The two general office deputies were: Mr. Harry W. Vrooman and Mr. B. Roy Russell, to whom I am greatly indebted for their splendid assistance. They were constantly on the job when needed, and for their most excellent work they have as their pay the satisfaction of knowing that they helped to make the food administration a success.

There were two deputies in charge of the eating and food establishments of the county: Mr. A. E. Deardorff, hotel and restaurant deputy, and Mr. C. S. Williams, deputy in charge of weights and measures. Mr. Arthur Goyer was a special deputy in charge of mills and elevators in the county. Mr. Sidney Banner and Mr. Floyd Imbler were labor deputies; Rev. David H. Shields, church deputy; Judge Fred J. Byers, lodge deputy; Mr. W. H. Mohler, baker deputy; Mr. John McKee, Mr. C. A. Malaby, Mr. Martin Coady and Mr. C. M. Anderson represented the grocers, and the following special deputies served throughout the county: Mr. H. H. Weaver, Greentown; Mr. H. M. Brubaker and Mr. J. M. Todhunter, Russiaville; Mr. John Fenn, Hemlock; Mr. D. E. Thomas, Center; Mr. Nehemiah Main and Mr. C. B. Tudor, Oakford; Mr. S. D. Ramseyer, West Middleton; Mr. O. A. Thomas, Alto; Miss Edna Ellis, Phlox; Mr. John Ritchey, Cassville, and Mr. J. W. Long, Sycamore. These deputies were engaged principally in the work of issuing sugar cards, and they performed a most excellent service under strenuous circumstances.

There was a threshing committee of three deputies: Mr. E. E. Stone, Greentown; Mr. John Fenn, Hemlock, and Mr. William Prather, Clay Township. In addition to these, every manager of a threshing ring was made a special deputy to enforce the conservation of grain.

The following persons served on a special committee in an advisory capacity: Mr. Elwood Haynes, Mr. E. J. Humpe, Mr. John B. Joyce, Mrs. W. C. Purdum, Mrs. W. E. Sollenberger, Mrs. G. W. Ross, Kokomo; Mrs. C. J. Davis, Greentown; Mr. Robert Kincaid and Mr. A. C. Shilling, Russiaville. The schools were represented by Prof. A. F. Hutson and Prof. C. E. Hinshaw. The county president of Food Clubs was Mrs. Howard Cottey, whose duty it was to organize township clubs for educational purposes. In addition to the persons above named, I want to mention my own office force, consisting of Mrs. J. R. Morgan, an office deputy; Mr. B. E. Day, Miss Gladys Heaton, Miss Esther Park and Miss Ruth Simmons, clerks, all of whom served faithfully part or all of the time in the food work and contributed to its success.

The Food Administration was dissolved Feb. 15, 1919. Although the war brought us many hardships, all will agree, no doubt, that it has been eminently worth while to have lived during those stirring and strenuous times.

In conclusion I wish to thank everyone who has been connected with the food administration, and to thank all with whom we came in contact, and to thank God that it is all over, and to hope that the world will be the better and that it will never be necessary to have another war.

I append in closing the final words of my superior officer, Dr. H. E. Barnard of Indianapolis, who says in his notification of discharge on Feb. 15, 1919: "In connection with this announcement, I cannot refrain from a further expression of my sincere personal gratitude for the splendid assistance you have rendered. It was your efforts and those of others associated with us that made possible the proud record of Indiana. We have received only thanks from the Washington officials for the splendid manner in which our task was executed, with never a word of criticism. I am sure I am wholly within the bounds of truth when I declare to you, as I have so many times verbally, that your duties were just as important and consequential, in their place, as were those of any soldier, and for those who contributed to the defeat of the arch enemy of civilization I know posterity will cherish only the kindest reverence." In addition to this I have received personal letters from Dr. H. E. Barnard and Mr. I. L. Miller, his chief deputy, containing words of appreciation and recognition of the work we have performed, and it is such expressions as those contained in these letters that make life really worth living.

LIBERTY LOAN

The fourth line of action as planned by the government was the raising of money. Several billions, an amount almost beyond human comprehension, was to be procured by the sale of bonds. This method of raising money was altogether new to the people of Howard County. Heretofore only the wealthy could afford to own government securities, but under the proposed plan bonds were to be sold to individual purchasers in as small denominations as fifty dollars. It was argued that the owner of a bond had made a good investment for himself, had favored his country, and would become a booster for his government. Howard County was thoroughly organized under the efficient leadership of H. C. Davis, who was appointed county director. Each occupation, city ward, township and precinct had its own sales organization. The men were not alone in this work, but were assisted by the women who were well organized throughout the county. A good-natured rivalry sprang up between teams to see which one would be the first to go "over the top." It was the common opinion among the workers that if the mingling of neighbor with neighbor, farmer with city fellow, and the rich with the poor, had done nothing more than create a closer feeling of friendship and interdependency among the citizens of Howard County, all the time and effort spent in the sale of bonds would have been worth while.

The First Liberty Loan Drive began May 4, 1917, and the allotment to Howard County of $560,000 was quickly subscribed by the banks of the county. The rate of interest was three and one-half per cent, and the purchasers had the privilege of exchanging their bonds for any later series bearing a higher rate of interest. The Second Liberty Loan (October 1-27, 1917) for $1,325,000 was oversubscribed by $37,000. These bonds bore four per cent interest and were convertible into those bearing a higher rate of interest. The entire allotment of this loan was taken by the people. This was also true of the Third and Fourth Loans. The use of the four-minute speakers was an innovation of this campaign. John B. Joyce, who was chairman of the speakers' bureau, supplied speakers for the local theatres, rural churches and for special meetings held in the county. These speakers played an important part by bringing the issues of the war constantly before the people. This method of education proved to be so effective that it was used in all subsequent drives.

Howard County's Third Liberty Loan (begun April 7, 1918) allotment was $950,000. The rate of interest was four and one-fourth per cent, and the quota was oversubscribed by $21,300. The Fourth Liberty Loan (begun Sept. 28, 1918) of $1,900,000, was oversubscribed by $29,550. On April 21, 1919, the Victory Loan was floated, and Howard County banks took the entire allotment of $1,425,000. These bonds run for a period of five years and bear interest at the rate of four and three-fourths per cent. Individual purchasers were given an opportunity to buy. When compared with other counties in the State, Howard takes rank with the first in meeting her allotments, and the number of individual purchasers.

THRIFT STAMPS

It was shown by the war that the people of the United States were the most profligate on the face of the earth. It was stated on good authority that the American people wasted enough food during the war to have fed the Allies. Whether that statement is true or not, no one will deny that vastly too much was wasted. To counteract, in part at least, the wasteful habits which had been formed, the government offered the thrift stamp as a means of saving in small amounts. One thrift stamp was worth twenty-five cents, and sixteen of them could be exchanged, by paying the accrued interest, for a war saving stamp, which in five years would be worth five dollars. No one person was permitted to purchase more than one thousand dollars in stamps. The War Savings and Thrift Stamp campaign began Dec. 3, 1917, and at that time the sale of stamps was confined largely to school children. In May, 1918, the campaign took on a more serious aspect and the county was thoroughly organized for a strenuous drive. June 28 was designated by President Wilson as W. S. S. day, when all the people were to take an inventory of their stamps already purchased and pledge themselves to buy as many more as possible during the year. A large bulletin board was erected in the court house yard, where the names of all the persons in the county were posted who had purchased the maximum number of stamps permitted by law. Thrift clubs were organized in every part of the county, in the churches, schools, stores, factories and banks where stamps could be purchased. All city postmen carried stamps as well as the rural carriers. Howard County's efficient organization, headed by J. E. Fredrick, chairman, sold over $700,000 in stamps during the year 1918, and by the postmaster's report in January, 1919, only ten per cent had been redeemed. So fundamental in its application is the thrift stamp movement that no doubt, in time, it will become a permanent part of the postal system. The State Board of Education of Indiana has planned a course in saving, which will be used in all the public schools beginning in September, 1919.

FUEL ADMINISTRATION

Early in the summer of 1917 it was predicted by those who were in a position to know, that in all probability there would be a shortage of coal during the coming winter. On Oct. 24, 1917, a fuel administrator was appointed whose duty it was to see that coal was not wasted and that those who needed fuel were supplied. In case of necessity coal could be taken from the factories, schools, or any concern, and delivered to those in need. Mr. William H. Turner was appointed fuel administrator, and he was ably assisted by O. H. Buck, J. P. Davis, O. C. Smith, Harvey Lybrook, Wilbur Turner and W. H. Arnett. True to prediction, the city's supply of coal was exhausted during the severe cold weather early in 1918, when it was all but impossible to get a new supply, due to a heavy snow and lack of railroad facilities. On Jan. 18, National Fuel Administrator Garfield ordered all non-essential factories closed until the 23rd. Also for ten weeks all business houses, except those handling foods, were ordered to close on Mondays. There were many anxious days in Kokomo when it looked as though the factories might any day have to close their doors and many families would be without fuel. By an order of the fuel administrator, all electrical display signs were to be discontinued for the time being; business houses could not open until nine in the morning and must close at six in the evening. Householders were ordered to turn off the heat from unoccupied rooms in the homes. For a short time all places of amusement, pool rooms and churches were closed, but the schools were well supplied with coal and were permitted to operate. On one Sunday, in order to save fuel, all the churches in the city held a union meeting in the high school auditorium. With moderating temperature the coal situation grew gradually better and Kokomo escaped without serious results. The position of fuel administrator was one that few could fill, and it was generally conceded that the affairs of this office were conducted in a fair and business-like manner. It was impossible to please all the people, but all will agree that the orders coming from the State and nation were carried out without fear or favor.

HOWARD COUNTY COUNCIL OF DEFENSE

LLOYD MCCLURE, Chairman

One of the first organizations formed after war had been declared was the National Council of Defense, and its subdivisions, one of which was the county unit. It was the duty of this body to keep the national authorities fully informed as to local conditions, and to further all war activities. In fact, it was to be the leader, the organizer, and the guardian of the safety of the people. The members of the Howard County Council were chosen from the citizens about whose loyalty and patriotism there was no question. Much of the work was done quietly, but effectively, and through its influence the fair name of Howard County was never disgraced by disloyal acts. A brief report of the work done was prepared by the chairman of the council, Lloyd McClure, and is as follows:

On May 31, 1917, Judge William C. Overton, of the Howard Circuit Court, named the following as members of the Howard County Council of Defense: Orlando A. Somers, Isabelle Purdum, Alfred S. Thompson, John W. Johnson, John A. Ellis, Ernest Murray and Harvey Lybrook. And at the time of such appointments, designated Orlando Somers as chairman, and Isabelle Purdum, secretary, and head of the women, of the war work of Howard County; John A. Ellis as the representative of labor, and Harvey Lybrook as representative of the farmers.

The above organization remained the same, so far as the records show, until the 13th day of August, 1917, when Mr. Somers forwarded a letter to Chairman Hays of the State Council of Defense, in which he recommended a complete revision of the Howard County Council of Defense and tendered his resignation, Mrs. Purdum having tendered her resignation some time before that date.

On the 24th of September, 1917, Lloyd McClure was appointed by Judge W. C. Overton of the Howard Circuit Court to succeed Mr. Somers as Chairman of the Howard County Council of Defense, and immediately took up the work and assumed charge. At the same time Judge Overton appointed Mrs. Edna C. Snoke as secretary and woman member of the Council to succeed Mrs. Purdum, resigned. And in place of Mr. Ernest Murray of Greentown, Mr. Joseph D. Haworth was appointed, Mr. Murray having asked to be relieved because of his inability to give attention to the matters and duties of the Council.

The Council from that date remained the same until the 11th day of June, 1918, when a complete reorganization of the Council of Defense for Howard County took place, as will hereinafter be referred to.

Upon the appointment of Lloyd McClure as Chairman, he appointed various sub-committees, first appointing—

Advisory Committee: Samuel Hollingsworth, Honey Creek Township; Milton Harpster, Ervin Township; John Middleton, Harrison Township; Arley Farrington, Union Township; Jacob Stahl, Liberty Township; William Newby, Monroe Township; Harry Matlock, Clay Township; William Smith, Taylor Township; Abram Garr, Jackson Township; Glen Carter, Howard Township; Mrs. Frank Seegar, Greentown; Mrs. Edna Miller, Russiaville; Mrs. John E. Moore, Mrs. John W. Gard, Andrew J. Habig, John Ferriday, Michael P. Roth, Albert V. Conradt, George W. Landon, Frank McCarty, Clinton Thatcher, Louis M. Springer, Harlan Osborn, Albert A. Charles, John R. McIntosh and Omer D. Hutto, Kokomo.

Finance Committee: William H. Arnett, H. C. Davis, Jr., John P. Grace, Oscar Smith, W. H. Arnold, Kokomo; Howard Brubaker, Russiaville; Dr. E. U. Powell, Greentown.

Publicity Committee: V. J. Obenauer, Kokomo Dispatch; Edwin M. Souder, Kokomo Tribune; John Woody, Russiaville Observer; John W. Melton, Greentown Gem; Harry M. Lynch, Kokomo Tribune.

Sanitation and Medicine: Dr. Edgar Cox, Secretary City Board of Health; Dr. F. N. Murray, County Health Commissioner; Dr. Earl Freeman, Greentown; Dr. H. C. Hart, Russiaville; Dr. A. W. Holcombe, Kokomo.

Public Morals Committee: Rev. D. H. Shields, Kokomo; Rev. Otis A. Smith, Kokomo; Rev. John F. Edwards, Russiaville; Rev. W. B. Freeland, Kokomo; Rev. Robert J. Pratt, Kokomo; Rev. Norman McClain, Greentown.

Public Protective Committee: Omer F. Brown, Sheriff, Kokomo; James B. Webb, Constable, Kokomo; Chester Miller, Chief of Police, Kokomo; Ves Garrett, Constable, Greentown; Grant Allison, Constable, Russiaville; Harvey Burke, Constable, Kokomo; Dan Thatcher, Constable, West Middleton.

Construction Committee: William H. Arnett, Kokomo; C. S. Wadman, Russiaville; John R. McIntosh, Kokomo; Joseph D. Haworth, Greentown; Clinton B. Tudor, Oakford.

At the time of the naming of these committees, Samuel Hollingsworth, William Newby, Milton Harpster, Harry Matlock, John Middleton, William Smith, Arley Farrington, Abram Garr, Jacob Stahl and Glen Carter were each designated as Chairmen of Councils of Defense in their respective townships.

At the time of naming the above committees, John B. Joyce was named, and continued to act during the remainder of the war, as manager of the Four-Minute Men, and in that connection rendered very valuable service.

On October 24, 1917, complying with the request of Mr. Evans Woollen, State Fuel Administrator, Lloyd McClure, as chairman, after conferring with members of the County Council of Defense as then constituted, nominated Mr. William H. Turner as County Fuel Administrator for Howard County, and also recommended as a sub-committee with him, Mr. O. H. Buck of the manufacturers; Mr. James P. Davis of the laboring interests; Mr. Oscar C. Smith, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mr. Harvey Lybrook to represent the farmers. And this County Council claims that there was no county in the State that had a more efficient Fuel Administration than Howard County, and much credit is due to the time, energy and money that was put into this work by the chairman, Mr. Turner, and by each of his loyal assistants.

On October 27th, complying with the request from Dr. H. E. Barnard, Federal Food Director of Indiana, Dr. J. R. Morgan was recommended as Food Administrator for Howard County, recommending at the same time a sub-committee composed of William P. Huston, wholesale grocer; J. H. Garritson, wholesale grocer; J. M. Burrows, retail grocer, and Edward Schaaf, retail grocer, the last two named being residents of Russiaville and Greentown, respectively. Dr. Morgan proved a most efficient Food Director, and we also claim that Howard County was second to none in the handling of the food situation.

On December 10, 1917, upon the request of Mr. N. E. Squibb, of the United States Public Service Reserve, Mr. Millard F. Brand, of Kokomo, was nominated as the United States Public Reserve Enrolling Agent of Howard County. Mr. Brand served until February 16, 1918, and served efficiently, but on the last named date he was compelled to resign by reason of matters over which he had no control, and Mr. John R. McIntosh was named to succeed him, Mr. McIntosh serving until the signing of the armistice.

During all of the time from the appointment of Lloyd McClure as chairman in September, 1917, to June, 1918, and even prior to that time, and during the time Mr.

Somers was chairman, the Council of Defense had never assumed any authority over the various war organizations, owing to the fact that the various activities had been independently organized, some of them before the first organization of the County Council of Defense. The Red Cross unit, the Liberty Loan work, War Savings Stamps division, Y. M. C. A. organization, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare and all the auxiliary war activities in the county were organized and working separately and doing efficient work in their respective lines. And the County Council of Defense, although intended to be the working center of all these activities, had never been truly a representative body, for the reason that these various organizations were not represented on the County Council of Defense; and in order to get this question of organization, and a closer union between the war working activities, a meeting was called on the 11th day of June, 1918, by Lloyd McClure as chairman of the County Council of Defense as it then existed, for the purpose of reorganization, to which meeting all of the various representatives of the war activities were invited, and the following organization was perfected: President, Lloyd McClure; Secretary, Mrs. Nellie Dawson; representative Liberty Loan, Henry C. Davis; Red Cross, Mrs. James C. Patten; Red Cross Work Shop, Mrs. George E. Bruner; Food Administration, Dr. James R. Morgan; Fuel, William H. Turner; Labor, James Burrows; W. S. S., J. E. Frederick; American Protective League, O. H. Buck; Knights of Columbus, J. W. Johnson; Jewish Welfare Society, J. S. Levi; Y. M. C. A., George W. Landon; Chamber of Commerce, W. H. Arnett; Boys' Working Reserve, Will Power; United States Public Service Reserve, John R. McIntosh; Howard County at large, C. S. Wadman, Russiaville; J. D. Haworth, Greentown; H. O. Lybrook, Ervin Township; C. B. Tudor, Oakford.

The organization as above perfected continued to be the County Council of Defense from that date, and had regular meetings on the first Tuesday of each month, sessions being held in the Council Chamber or the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 4 p. m. on said day.

The purpose of the County Council of Defense was to encourage all war activities, and to assist in carrying out all the war activities, and place Howard County on a war basis, at all times demanding that the obligations of every citizen of Howard County were sacredly equal. And that every individual must of necessity be loyal and patriotic and willing to sacrifice, if need be, for the cause of his country.

There probably should be added to this report a statement relative to the Construction Committee. The Construction Committee was one of the most important committees of the Council of Defense, in that it had general charge and supervision and power to prohibit or permit construction of public and private work, and it should be stated that the Construction Committee of this Council, as above set out, was especially complimented by the State Council of Defense for its work and accomplishments in this county; and we were able to receive, by reason of the confidence placed by the State Council of Defense, the closest and most courteous co-operation of the State Council of Defense in all our activities along that line.

It should also be said in this report that Mrs. Nellie Dawson, who was named secretary in the last organization, and by virtue of that office head of the women's work of this county, that she worked diligently and faithfully to perfect an organization, but was greatly handicapped in her work owing to the fact that she assumed the duties in the middle of the work, and received very little co-operation or assistance from the outgoing Secretary, who left the county and State, and, it is to be regretted, did not leave an accurate record of her work up to the time of her resignation.

HOWARD COUNTY RELIEF ORGANIZATIONS

One of the most popular organizations and one to which most people contributed was the Red Cross. During the early summer of 1917 a representative of the National Red Cross organization came to Kokomo to organize a Howard County chapter. A few interested persons in that work met in a preliminary meeting and formed a temporary organization with Dr. Will J. Martin as chairman. Later as the demand for Red Cross work increased it became necessary to form a permanent organization, which was done, and Henry C. Davis was elected county chairman. A membership drive was started June 12, 1917, to secure at least six thousand additional members. After a week of preliminary educational campaign was conducted, the drive began. Committees were sent from Kokomo to organize the townships, so that when the drive started it would be an easy matter to get members. There were five kinds of memberships offered: annual, $1.00; subscribing, $2.00; contributing, $5.00; sustaining, $10.00; life, $25.00; patron, $100.00. This was a new work for all the people, but the exigencies of the times demanded immediate action if we were to help the boys who were going to camp. The quota was easily reached.

The second task assigned Howard County was the raising of $25,000, one-fourth to be used for local purposes and the remainder to go to the national organization, which was equipping hospitals, caring for the wounded soldiers, and assisting their dependent families. A number of citizens were called to the Chamber of Commerce headquarters, where the matter was discussed. Some doubted the advisability of the undertaking. The committee was about to take unfavorable action when two members arrived who had been detained. The question was put to them, and both expressed the opinion that it was not only the patriotic duty to raise the amount, but it could and must be done. From that time the success of the campaign was assured. Kokomo took as her share $20,000, and $5,000 was apportioned to the townships. More than $26,000 was subscribed. The next membership quota was easily reached. Again in June, 1918, a call was made for $30,000. This amount was apportioned among the different political divisions of the county, and the full amount was raised, one-fourth being retained to meet the needs of the local chapter.

The Red Cross workshop had its inception in May, 1917, when the Tuesday Club decided to organize a Red Cross unit, and invited the women of other organizations to join in the work. The first meeting was held

May 9, 1917, in the Department Club rooms. More than two hundred women assembled for active work. Since the organization was not in conformity with the rules of the National Red Cross Society, it became necessary to start anew in order to have official recognition. Accordingly plans were obtained and the local workshop was organized with Mrs. George Bruner chairman. She served until October, 1917, when Mrs. J. C. Patten took charge. Mrs. D. C. Jenkins had acted as the first treasurer, but when she went away for the summer, Mrs. W. J. McElwain was named to fill this place. Commodious quarters were opened in the Broadlick Building on West Sycamore street. The shop was a busy place until the work was discontinued in the spring of 1919. Day after day the women met for weeks and months—sewing, cutting and knitting for the soldiers. So popular did knitting become that it was no uncommon sight to see this work done at socials, on trains, and a few even took their knitting to church. Those who toiled there will never know how much good they accomplished—indeed it cannot be measured. The influence was felt by the boys in the front-line trenches; it gave comfort to those in the hospital; it soothed the wounded and it blessed the dying. It was the crystalization of all the supreme ideals which unselfishly ministered to a suffering world.

Following is the report of work done:

VOLUNTEER MEDICAL SERVICE CORPS

Early in 1918 it was apparent that, if the war continued, there would not be enough physicians to properly care for the army hospitals in this country and the civilian population. So many physicians had been accepted for overseas service that many communities were left entirely without medical aid, and in other places there were not enough physicians to care for the regular medical practice. In order to meet this situation the Volunteer Medical Service Corps was organized and all the physicians of the country were asked to offer their services. They were not required to go overseas, but they obligated themselves to go any place in the United States where their services were most needed, whether it be in a cantonment or a community. It was also understood by those under 55 years of age who joined the service corps that they would accept a commission if it should be tendered to them either in the army or navy. Howard County's physicians responded almost to a man. Dr. J. L. Puckett, a veteran of the Civil War, volunteered as quickly as did the younger men. A number of the physicians were in the regular service and their names appear elsewhere in this book. Dr. O. D. Hutto volunteered, but received his commission about the time the armistice was signed and was never mustered into the service.

The chairman of the local corps was Dr. James W. Wright. In compiling the list of members, the records of Dr. Frank B. Wynn, Chairman State Executive Committee, were consulted. The following physicians were from Kokomo, Indiana:

Y. M. C. A.

From the day Company E left Kokomo for the Mexican Border until the last soldier returned from overseas, Kokomo's Young Men's Christian Association stood ready with its entire organization and equipment to co-operate in any and all war work. In its rooms committees from the different war organizations met and outlined their campaigns. Lodgings and lunches were furnished the boys at reduced rates. Meals and a plunge in the pool were offered free to groups of soldiers in transit. And when the soldiers returned from overseas they were given a six months' free membership.

When the local association cast about for a leader during the war, it was unanimously agreed that George W. Landon, who had given so many years to the work, and had been its president since its organization, should be the county director. Associated with him were a number of the leading citizens of the community, who under his able leadership put the "Y" work of Howard County second to none in the State.

The first campaign to raise funds for the Y. M. C. A. was conducted May 20-28, 1917. Howard County was in a district with Carroll and Clinton Counties. The allotments were: Howard, $3,500; Clinton, $1,050; Carroll, $650. For this small amount it was not deemed advisable to make a general canvass, but a committee composed of George W. Landon, chairman; H. P. Voorhies, secretary, and J. R. Morgan, treasurer, was delegated to raise the quota in this county. The amount was easily subscribed as follows: Howard, $3,732.50; Clinton, $1,599.55; Carroll, $683.07.

The district organization for the second campaign, Nov. 11-19, 1917, was as follows: District chairman, J. E. Fredrick; district campaign director, H. P. Voorhies; district treasurer, Richard Ruddell; district campaign director for boys, Will G. Power, all of Kokomo. The officers of the county organization were: Chairman, George W. Landon; campaign director, A. T. Snoke; treasurer, J. R. Morgan; campaign director for boys, C. E. Hinshaw. The allotment for Howard County was $20,000 and the amount subscribed was $24,164.89. The other county allotments and subscriptions were: Cass, $13,000—$14,016.88; Clinton, $12,000—$18,577.54; Carroll, $7,000—$8,500.

The work of the Y. M. C. A. was carried to every camp and battle-front. Huts were erected wherever it seemed expedient, and oftentimes they were located within the range of the enemy's guns. In the huts all soldiers were made welcome. They furnished a lounging place for those off duty, where they could write letters or read the newspapers and magazines which were supplied. All sorts of games and amusements were planned for the boys in order to help divert the minds of the soldiers for even a short time from the stern realities of war. Without these places of rest and amusement, the life of the soldier would have been almost intolerable.

The national war work council of the Y. M. C. A. immediately took steps to care for the service men upon their return to their homes. A three months' membership was furnished free to all local associations, and secretaries assisted in replacing the men in their old jobs or in more lucrative positions, and in obtaining places for them to live.

The work in Howard County was under the direction of Robert E. Clee, a returned soldier, and in many respects it was better than in other counties. Instead of only a three months' free membership, the local board of directors extended the membership to six months, and within five months' time 526 men of the county had taken advantage of this offer and were using the privileges granted to them.

More than a hundred men applied for help in getting work, and in all cases they were placed. The local business men co-operated in this work. Several hundred soldiers were accommodated with comfortable rooms, and those who could not get rooms in the Y. M. C. A. building were placed in good homes in the city. Beds were added to the dormitory until seventy-eight men were furnished with comfortable, "homey" rooms. Between twenty-five and fifty men were always on the waiting list.

A number of entertainments were given for the benefit of the service men. Perhaps the most pretentious one was a lobby stunt April 11, 1919, at which time there were over three hundred present. The gymnasium entertainment given three weeks later by fifty service men was witnessed by more than four hundred persons. A camp-fire meeting with a "hot dog" roast and "smoker" was held for the service men the latter part of June in Learner's woods.

Soldiers, sailors and marines visiting in Kokomo, or home on furlough, found a genuine welcome in the "Y," and they were given all privileges free during their stay in the city.

The Y. M. C. A. will continue to serve these men as the years go by. Good fellowship, Christian environment and fair dealing will go far in helping them get back into the community life. The Y. M. C. A. is the community center and general meeting place for the men who live in this county, and a home for the men away from home.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

It was in 1916, when the National Guard was sent to the Mexican Border, that the Knights of Columbus began their war activities. Huts were erected where a large number of troops were stationed, and everything possible was done to make it pleasant and comfortable for the soldiers. The expense of this undertaking was borne by the members of the organization, to which the Kokomo council contributed most liberally. On May 20, 1917, a great patriotic meeting was held in the high school auditorium in the city of Kokomo, where a number of speakers were present, among whom were Charles M. Niezer, Patrick O'Donnell, Rev. Robert J. Pratt, J. W. Johnson and John B. Joyce. The large audience was profoundly impressed by the intense patriotic and loyal spirit which permeated the meeting.

In the first national drive for a million dollars, the allotment for Kokomo was $1,700. This amount was easily raised during the week of July 23-29 by a committee composed of J. W. Johnson, chairman; J. B. Joyce, chairman publicity, and J. P. Grace, treasurer. The amount subscribed was $2,575.

Following the Second Liberty Loan drive the latter part of May, 1918, the Knights of Columbus started a campaign to raise $30,000,000 for war work purposes. The quota for Howard County was $12,000, and the amount subscribed was $15,319.75. The personnel of the committee which raised the fund was made up of some of the leading business men of Kokomo. J. W. Johnson was made chairman, and no better selection could have been made. J. P. Grace, treasurer; D. E. Murphy, secretary; J. B. Joyce, publicity director. Other members of the committee were A. G. Seiberling, George W. Landon, J. E. Fredrick, H. C. Davis, Richard Ruddell, Fred Macke, A. L. Thalman, James C. Patten, W. H. Turner, W. H. McCarty, Elwood Haynes, Henry Bergman, Rev. R. J. Pratt, Gus Vandenbosch, Frank McCarty, W. S. Toomey, George W. Stidger, S. S. Shambaugh, J. E. Williams, J. F. Dwyer, Sidney Stern, Martin Coady, George F. Stahl, A. H. Stewart, O. M. Booher, Tom Williams and Karl Krebsner.

Members of this organization worked faithfully in all other war activities, giving of their time and means. The local council had fifty-eight of its members in the war, representing all branches of the service. Four volunteered and were accepted for war work secretaries, but only two were permitted to go. They were, Rudolph Henger to Camp Shelby, Miss., and Frank McClanahan to Fort Benjamin Harrison, who remained on duty until the army was demobilized.

The work of the Knights of Columbus was not confined to the States, but huts were erected along the western front in France, and all soldiers were made welcome. Tobacco and chocolate were given freely to the boys as they went to the front-line trenches. Boxing and wrestling matches were staged, as well as many other forms of amusement, to help keep up the morale of the army. Free stationery was furnished the boys, and the secretaries often helped them with their correspondence, and made sure that their letters were directed to the proper destination.

This organization, with others of like character and purposes, did a great amount of good, and without their services the men in the camps and at the front would have been deprived of many of the luxuries that made life more agreeable.

JEWISH WELFARE WORK

In the first fund raised by the Jewish Welfare Relief Committee, A. L. Thalman was president, and Sig Leon secretary and treasurer. Three hundred and eighty-six dollars were raised for Jewish sufferers in the allied countries. In the second campaign, the amount subscribed was $2,475. In these campaigns the money had been raised by private subscription. However, in the third campaign, which was launched after peace was declared, the people of Howard County were asked to contribute $15,000. A short, vigorous campaign was made under the able leadership of J. W. Johnson, county chairman. One public meeting was held at which Alvah J. Rucker, prosecuting attorney at Indianapolis, made the principal address. Local speakers included: George W. Landon, John B. Joyce and Elwood Haynes.

SALVATION ARMY

At a meeting held at the Y. M. C. A., March 28, 1918, the business men of Kokomo decided to raise $1,000, the allotment for Howard County in the drive for the Salvation Army. Elwood Haynes presided, and a committee was appointed which raised in a short time $1,081. In the spring of 1919 a drive for $5,000 was started. The slogan "He may be down, but is never out," met with favor, and everyone seemed eager to help. The Elks Lodge took over the management of the campaign and raised within a single day more than $7,000. Little was known of the real work of the Salvation Army until the soldiers began to return from overseas with glowing stories of the sacrifice and heroism displayed by the army workers. There seemed to be no hardship so severe and no danger so great that they hesitated to endure if it would give aid and comfort to soldiers. Their deeds of mercy and their devotion to duty will long remain as a pleasant memory in the minds of those who were the recipients of their kindness.

LIBRARY DRIVE

On Oct. 3, 1917, an organization was formed to raise $850 which was to be used to purchase books and magazines for the soldiers. J. E. Fredrick, president of the library board, was temporary chairman. The officers who served were: Chairman, Mrs. L. M. Knepple; secretary, Miss Ruth M. Miller; treasurer, Rev. David H. Shields. A committee to solicit funds was selected, composed of Mrs. A. B. Armstrong, Mrs.

W. E. Sollenberger, O. M. Booher, H. M. Lynch and C. V. Haworth. The Psi Iota Xi, as an organization, took the downtown district. The amount raised was $821, and in addition to this 2,200 books were sent to war camps.

Instead of having set drives later, there were four or five successful calls for books. In this way 1,200 more books were sent away. Two hundred and fifty were collected by the W. C. T. U., and they were permitted to send them to the hospital for disabled soldiers at West Baden, Ind. The Ladies' Aid Society of Grace M. E. Church gave fifty volumes of new fiction. The Daughters of the American Revolution contributed more than one hundred books. Whenever the library announced that there was a need of books for the soldiers, immediately a supply would be furnished by the book-lovers of the county. Within two weeks after each call in the newspapers, the boxes would be filled. The librarian, Mrs. W. E. Sollenberger, wishes to make special mention of the following workers who gathered books to be sent away: Mrs. J. E. Fredrick, Mrs. Henry C. Davis, Mrs. M. F. Brand, Mrs. M. R. Doyan, Mrs. J. C. Patten and Mrs. Almedia B. Waltz. In the lobby of the library was a table where magazines were left to be sent to camps. In this way thousands of copies were forwarded to proper destinations.

UNITED WAR WORK

During the summer of 1918 the different war organizations of the country decided to combine their forces in one drive, and raise a sufficiently large sum of money to meet the needs of each one for one year. On Oct. 24, 1918, at a called meeting, the representatives of the various groups met at the Y. M. C. A. It was decided to raise $65,000. The organizations and their representatives included: Y. M. C. A., George W. Landon; Y. W. C. A., Mrs. W. C. Purdum; K. of C., John B. Joyce; Salvation Army, Peter Parsons; American Library Association, David H. Shields; Jewish Welfare Board, A. L. Thalman; War Camp Community Service, C. C. Shirley.

C. H. Wills was elected chairman for Howard County; C. C. Shirley, vice-chairman; Orville St. John, secretary; Fred L. Trees, treasurer; Harry M. Lynch, director of publicity.

At the close of the campaign Nov. 21, 1918, the total amount raised was $28,763.79. The committee recommended that the remainder of the amount called for be taken from the provisional tax levy.

UNITED STATES BOYS' WORKING RESERVE

The labor situation in this country became acute when thousands of the young men were withdrawn from active industrial and agricultural pursuits and placed in military and naval forces. To meet such a condition, a supply of new labor of non-military age had to be found. The only source from which it could be drawn was from among the boys between the ages of sixteen and twenty. Such a plan was thought to be feasible, so an organization was formed, known as the United States Boys' Working Reserve, with a director for each county, appointed by the County Council of Defense. Howard County was fortunate in having Will Power selected as its director, who with unbounded enthusiasm and efficient management placed Howard among the first counties of the State in actual work accomplished. The following report was prepared by Mr. Power:

Due to the heavy demand for men by the government, the farms were deserted to such an extent that those left at home were unable to handle the many responsibilities of the farm. Many factories, some of them handling large war orders, were struggling along with depleted forces. It was the object of the Reserve to recruit boys and train them to fill the places left vacant by the men who were called into the service of their country.

The Boys' Working Reserve was conducted by the Department of Labor of the United States. The county directors reached every family within their territory. About two hundred boys in Howard County signed for work either on the farms or in the factories. Most of these boys were placed in or near Howard County. Large groups were sent to Windfall and Austin, Ind., to help save the tomato crops. According to the statements of the owners of these crops, they would have lost the entire crop had it not been for the Boys of the Reserve. Thirty-five boys were assigned to the Kokomo Steel and Wire Company to help get out a large war order.

All boys serving with the Reserve for sixty days were presented with a bronze service pin by the Department of Labor. Fifty Howard County boys received this badge of honor. Following is the list of those for 1917-1918 on the Howard County Roll of Honor: Kokomo boys: Harold Ault, Russell Butcher, Leonard Browers, Claude Butcher, George Ehrman, Horace Edwards, Frank Fenn, Everett Kidder, Harry Locke, William Marvin Peters, Everett Pettay, James Rice, Arthur B. Swinney, Charles Weger, Samuel William Smelter, William Marion Peters, Charles Richmond Harlan, Owen Meridith Stevens, Clarence M. Kenworthy, Marvin H. Bennett, Walter Smith, and William A. Batey. Russiaville: Ora Cooper, Dewey Foreman, Clarence Kenworthy, Peter Donald Townsend, Clarence McKinley Cunningham. Greentown: James Carr, James David, Roy Green, Wayne Johnson, George Kirkendall, Fred Morgan, Raymond Pickett, Samuel Smeltzer, Edmund Seagrave, George Wesley Kirkendall, James Harold Summers, Ray Walter Green, Ford Albert Morgan, James Whitney Carr, Owen Rust. Oakford: Dallas Croddy. New London: Alvin Osborne, Elbert Tucker. Hemlock: Anderson Fenn, Fred Earl Shuck. Cassville: Clarence Morgan.

VICTORY BOYS AND GIRLS

Every boy and girl in the United States was asked to earn and give $5 for the benefit of the army camp fund, and Nov. 11, 1918, was designated as the day to enroll in victory classes. A special victory button and banner was to be given when the amount was paid. Every boy and girl who succeeded in signing five others was to receive the title of "ace," and a banquet was to be given at the close of the drive for the "aces." Will G. Power was selected as district director, C. E. Hinshaw was county director of boys, and Miss Julia Russell was county director for girls. At the close of the campaign it was found that the pupils in Room 300 of the Kokomo high school had won, the girls leading with forty subscriptions. The total amount raised was almost $2,000. The "aces" who partook of the banquet at the Y. M. C. A., Dec. 4, 1918, were: Wilfred Bryant, Russell Burrows, Esther Carter, William Graham, Miriam Hamilton, Starley Hunter, Wendell Newsom, John William Puckett, Wayne Seaver, Walter Smith, Gertrude Ton. Talks were made by Rev. Otis A. Smith, Will Power, Charles Walk, C. E. Hinshaw and Miss Russell. The boys raised $930, while the girls contributed $1,028.50. Total, $1,958.50.

FOUR-MINUTE SPEAKERS

JOHN B. JOYCE, Chairman

Four-minute speakers were called upon to give talks at the various theatres and many public meetings. Men and women were asked to present, in not more than four minutes, the many patriotic movements launched by the government and the various relief organizations.

Those who spoke at the theatres were: Rev. Otis A. Smith, Rev. David H. Shields, Rev. Robert J. Pratt, J. C. Herron, B. F. Harness, A. G. Manning, Lloyd McClure, C. W. Roll, Fred J. Byers, Conrad Wolf, Earl B. Barnes, C. C. Shirley, C. V. Haworth, Lex J. Kirkpatrick, Warren R. Voorhis, Fred H. Jessup, H. G. Gwartney, Dr. Elbert M. Landon, Mrs. Laura Bennett Stokes, Mrs. Almeda Waltz, Mrs. L. M. Knepple, Mrs. A. T. Snoke, Miss Martha Kumler, Mrs. Dana Sollenberger, Mrs. Frank A. Rossiter, Mrs. John E. Moore, Mrs. Nora Russell, Mrs. Florence McElwaine, Mrs. George E. Bruner, Mrs. Samuel Bartlett, Mrs. C. M. Randolph, Miss Mazie Ingells, Mrs. Howard Cottey, Mrs. C. M. Randolph and Mrs. W. E. Jack.

In addition to the foregoing, there were calls for speakers at many meetings of clubs, lodges and various organizations, where there was a need for a brief presentation of many patriotic subjects. The librarian and committee chairmen have furnished the following list of speakers for such meetings, although these were not called "four-minute" speakers: Mrs. C. H. Brown, Mrs. Fred L. Trees, Miss Mary Winfield, Miss Jessamine Armstrong, Mrs. Edwin Greeson, Mrs. L. N. Parker, Mrs. J. M. Todhunter, Mrs. O. O. Butcher, Mrs. E. L. Danner, Mrs. Frank Graves, Mrs. Julia J. Davis, Miss Elsie Schnewind, Mrs. G. D. Jay, Miss Kathleen Cooper, Mrs. Julia Griffin, Miss Helen Ross, Mrs. Ruth Ross Herrman, Mrs. Minnie Burrows, Mrs. F. S. Willer, Mrs. George B. Lindsay, Mrs. W. O. Finch, Mrs. J. B. Reagan, Mrs. T. A. Delo, Miss Sara Strayer, Mrs. Abbie Hollopeter, Mrs. Minnie Burrows, Miss Effie Lee, Mrs. Casper Butler and Mrs. John Toomey.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Perhaps there was no organization in the county that did not contribute something toward the success of the war. There was one, however, which by the very nature and scope of its work took part in nearly all war work. There was no undertaking for war purposes but what either the Chamber of Commerce or some of its members had a prominent part. Its presidents, O. C. Smith and J. E. Fredrick, were public-spirited men, and together with W. H. Arnett, its efficient secretary, were active in all war activities. The chamber conducted civilian relief work among the families of dependent soldiers, and served as a clearing house for all the war organizations in the county. When the boys returned home, an employment bureau was operated, and no soldier who applied for work was turned away without a job. It helped maintain a manufacturing bureau in Washington, D. C., which aided in securing contracts for local concerns. Mr. Charles Muckenhern was the representative of the local industries. The members of the employment bureau were A. V. Conradt, John B. Joyce and Patrick Maloney. These men were broad-minded, sympathetic and patriotic; they had a clear vision of the workmen's problem and materially aided in stabilizing labor problems.

AMERICAN PROTECTIVE LEAGUE

There was an organization that played an important part in the history of Howard County about which people knew very little. The members worked quietly, but they knew every alien enemy, every move made by those under suspicion, and they investigated every person reported to be pro-German in his sympathies. So carefully were these investigations made that two suspects were traced from their home along the Rhine to Sweden, across to England, then to New York, Akron, O., and finally to Kokomo, Ind.; but when their records were fully investigated it proved to be a case for charity rather than the stern arm of the law. Two suspects were quietly sent out of town and one transient was made to prove his identity. At one time there were two persons employed in local manufacturing concerns where war materials were made, whose actions brought them under suspicion. Although they were never taken into custody, they were so closely guarded that they never had an opportunity to damage the plants or hinder production.

The name of this organization was the American Protective League. It received its authority directly from the Department of Justice. Its membership was composed of sixty men, chosen from every walk of life, for their courage and patriotism. They served without pay and their actions were prompted wholly by patriotic motives.

HOWARD COUNTY VIGILANCE SOCIETY

The organization known as the Howard County Vigilance Society had for its slogan, "One hundred per cent American." Its activities were largely confined to the investigation of reported disloyal acts and utterances. Beginning with the first Sunday in September, 1918, and for a number of Sundays thereafter, members of this organization patrolled street intersections in the down-town districts and the main highway crossings in the county on gasless Sundays. All persons driving cars were stopped and admonished to obey the government restrictions in the use of gasoline, unless their mission was one of necessity or for religious purposes.

One morning soon after the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign had ended, a number of names of alleged "slackers" appeared on a large yellow bulletin board located on the southeast corner of the court house yard. Naturally this caused considerable comment, and the sentiment was divided as to the wisdom of this method of procedure. There were rumors of damage suits, but the whole incident was quietly dropped when the board was removed from the public square.

WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

The women of Howard County gave of their time and strength just as freely as did the men. They not only assisted in drives but carried on the relief work, which was a never-ending task. In the home, in the church and in the shop the women worked faithfully. They supported French orphans, collected food for the Belgians and clothing for the Armenians. It was remarkable how quickly the women revised the family budget to meet the ever-increasing cost of living, and adjusted themselves to war-time food regulations.

Some of the women's organizations were inactive during the war and their members devoted their time to Red Cross work. However, some of them worked independently and accomplished great good, and no war history of the county would be complete without a report of their activities.

CLARA BARTON SUNDAY-SCHOOL CLASS

The Clara Barton Sunday-School Class gave to the Red Cross their annual dues of $49.00, and in addition to this gave $66.25. They completed 722 articles for the Red Cross Shop.

DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

The General James Cox chapter of the D. A. R. contributed to the Y. M. C. A., $10; Y. W. C. A., $10; Red Cross, $15; French orphan fund, $85; restoration of the French village of Tilloloy, $40; Jewish Relief, Third row—Mrs. G. T. Rathel, Chairman Catholic Auxiliary; Mrs. J. E. Fredrick, First Chairman Cutting Department; Mrs. G. D. Jay, Director Civilian Relief; Mrs. Bessie Cox, Red Cross; Mrs. Josephine Sailors, Red Cross; Mrs. Gretchen Gerhart, Red Cross.

$10; patriotic education, $22; soldiers' mothers, $12; 150 books, and 100 quarts of fruit, and twenty-eight scrap books. Copies of the Constitution of the United States were given to the public schools and public buildings. Five members of the chapter supported French orphans. The members made 1,561 garments, part of which were sent to Belgian children. The chapter was a Red Cross auxiliary. In the loan campaigns, $200 were invested in bonds, and the coupons re-invested in war savings stamps.

GLOBE RANGE WOMEN

The women employes of the Globe Range Company conceived the idea of knitting a flag which they would place on sale, the proceeds of the sale to be given to the Red Cross. The employes of the factory contributed the money to buy the yarn, and the following women made the flag: Josephine Brown, Blanche Parker, Ethel Kreig, Sallie Dimmitt, Lulu Frazier and Nellie Wickersham. It took nearly a month to complete the flag; then it was placed on exhibit in the window of the Thalman & Levi store and tickets were sold. On the evening of June 18, 1918, after a Red Cross parade, headed by the Citizens' Band and the militia, a program was given on the lawn of the Globe Park. Conrad Wolf was in charge of the ceremonies. The amount received from this sale was $982. Considering the amount of the investment, this was said to be the largest gift to the Howard County Chapter of the Red Cross. It was a fine lesson in patriotism, for it showed what could be done by women who were employed.

KOKOMO DEPARTMENT CLUB

The Kokomo Department Club gave for the support of a French orphan, $36.50; soldiers' library fund, $5; French Christmas fund, $5; French children's fund, $7.04; war children's relief fund membership, fifty cents; Liberty Loan advertising in Dispatch, $5; United War Work pledge, $25; soldiers' scrap books, $2; War Victory fund for hostess houses pledge, $25. The club invested $500 in Liberty bonds and $24.96 in war savings stamps.

KOKOMO EQUAL SUFFRAGE AND LITERARY CLUB

Instead of serving refreshments at the meetings, as had been the custom for years, the Suffrage Club voted that the hostesses should pay fifty cents each, and give the amount each month to any war relief work the committee wished. From time to time patriotic talks were heard along lines that most needed attention.

P. E. O. SOCIETY

The P. E. O. sisterhood was the first organization of women to buy a bond in the Second Liberty Loan campaign. This was the first loan in which the women were organized. The bond was later given to the national P. E. O. educational fund. At each meeting the members did Red Cross sewing.

PSI IOTA XI SORORITY

The members of Psi Iota Xi raised money to make and fill 200 comfort kits and fifty layettes. They gave for French orphan support $73, to the Red Cross $300. They had charge of the library drive in the downtown district. Each member spent one afternoon a week at the Red Cross shop. One hundred scrap books were made, and innumerable sweaters, helmets and wristlets. They assisted in all the campaigns and purchased one Liberty bond.

ROUND TABLE

The members of the Round Table gave $5 to the War Library fund and $10 to the War Victory Commission for hostess houses in France.

SYMPOSIUM

The Symposium gave to the French orphan fund, $73; French War Orphan Relief Association, $50; comfort kits for soldiers, $6.25; box for soldiers, $7.90; Y. W. C. A. war work, $5; library war fund, $5; national anti-tuberculosis association for war work, $5; Red Cross, $5; War Victory Commission for hostess houses in France, $25.

TRI KAPPA SORORITY

The Tri Kappas spent one evening each week at the Red Cross shop making surgical dressings. The members knitted a large supply of sweaters, socks, helmets, and made many comfort kits, children's garments for Belgian refugees, and layettes. They assisted in all of the drives. The sorority contributed nearly $500 to war relief work; gave money to the Indiana ambulance for the western front. Three members are now in government work at Washington: Mary Jane Brandon, and Beatrix and Irene Bayer.

WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

The W. C. T. U. sent to the military hospital at West Baden, Ind., 400 books, fifty handkerchiefs, one barrel of jelly and fruit, a wool afghan and music records valued at $50. They paid $10 on a field kitchen, $36.50 for the support of a French orphan, $2 for the young crusader's fatherless fund, $1 to the blind soldiers' book fund. One union in the county made eight dozen bandages. The county organization purchased one Liberty bond and each of the Kokomo unions bought one bond. One union made a large number of comfort kits. The Jubilee Fund for Reconstruction Work called for the largest subscription, but it proved to be the easiest to raise. The assessment for Howard County was $1,140. The women raised $1,203.59. The boys and girls gave to this fund $80 which they raised in their Loyal Temperance Legion tag day work. The members of the W. C. T. U. worked in all lines of war activities.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The W. R. C. was the first organization to have its own Red Cross auxiliary. They knitted 156 articles and made 648 garments. They gave $130 to various war relief funds, and purchased $100 worth of war savings stamps. These women had worked for the "Boys in Blue" who marched away in '61. They were quick to see the need of organized effort, and the fingers which had moved so deftly in another war were just as quick to respond to the needs of their sons and grandsons who went to the front in 1917-18.

GREENTOWN CLUBS

The women of Greentown did a great deal of work in their Red Cross organizations and clubs. The Research Club gave $27 as the proceeds from one entertainment. They sent a large number of books to the War Library. The Home Economics Club sent a quantity of canned goods, as did also the W. C. T. U. on several different occasions.

RUSSIAVILLE WOMEN

The Russiaville Red Cross organization had more than sixty members. They gave over $800, and in addition made over 800 garments, 250 pairs of socks, and many sweaters, helmets, scarfs and wristlets. The women of the Tourist Club gave to the Red Cross $10; the Thimble Club $5, and they sewed at every meeting; the Elite Club $4; the Needle Club $5, and they made dozens of sheets and hospital garments for French orphans. The women in the several churches raised money and made garments as follows: Methodist, $50 and 163 garments; Baptist, $15 and 150 garments; Friends, $10 and forty-three garments; Christian, $20 and twenty-four garments. The Junior Red Cross made eighty garments and knitted many articles. The women of Russiaville prepared more than 6,000 surgical dressings, and sent to soldiers' libraries over 100 books. The Eastern Star purchased one Liberty bond.

NEW LONDON

The ladies of the New London auxiliary completed more than four-hundred garments for the soldiers, including socks, sweaters, helmets, etc. Girls' capes, underwear and shirts were made for the refugees of France and Belgium. A number of the ladies came to Kokomo to work in the Red Cross shop, where they made over eight hundred gauze bandages for hospital purposes. The Friends church gave fifty dollars per month during the war for reconstruction work in France.

Other units in the county were just as active and just as patriotic, but no definite report was available for publication.

CHURCHES

It is interesting to note how quickly the churches of Howard County assumed their share of the war work. The ministers accepted the challenge and preached a pure and undefiled patriotism from every pulpit in the county. Churches became the community centers where patriotic meetings were held and organizations formed for war work. Creeds were forgotten, all denominations worshipped together, and Protestant, Catholic and Hebrew spoke from the same platform. In the Jewish relief drive a Catholic was county chairman. The war called for universal service. Church rooms were fitted up for the Red Cross shop, where the women and girls assembled to knit and sew for the soldiers. Sunday-schools gave entertainments and the proceeds were donated to the Red Cross or some other relief organization.

A beautiful custom of displaying service flags in the churches, homes and places of business was observed throughout the war. The flag had a border of red and the stars were on a field of white. A silver star represented the living and a gold one the dead. These flags were dedicated to the men who had gone into the service, and were kept hanging in some appropriate place until the close of the war or the return of the men.

Perhaps the first church in the county to so honor her young men was St. Andrews Episcopal. Many of her sons had joined the army long before America entered the war, and they stood ready to avenge the death of their British cousins as soon as the opportunity should come. This little parish gave her entire strength of young men. The rector, Rev. John F. Plummer, kept constantly in touch with each of the thirty-nine boys by correspondence during the war.

The Disciples Church sent its pastor, Rev. David H. Shields, to do religious work in the army cantonments. His work was received so well by the soldiers that he was asked to go overseas as a chaplain. Although this work appealed to him very much, he felt that his church at home was his special field.

Rev. Otis A. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, inaugurated a series of special patriotic services, which were held on Sunday evenings. A number of the leading citizens of the city took part in these services and spoke on various phases of war work.

The Christian Scientists gave liberally to war relief work.

St. Patrick's Church had one of the largest service flags in the county.

Rev. Robert J. Pratt took part in all war activities and the women gave a great amount of time to relief work.

A gold star was placed on the service flag of the Harrison Street Christian Church, in memory of James DeArmond Golloday, the first Howard County soldier killed in the war.

Grace Methodist Church had the largest auditorium in the city, and here were held many of the patriotic meetings, where members from all churches in the city participated. Its pastor, Rev. W. B. Freeland, was active in all war work.

The Main Street Methodist Church was the scene of many stirring meetings. Its service flag contained almost a hundred silver stars and one gold one. The pastor, Rev. E. E. Trippeer, volunteered to go overseas as a chaplain, but younger men were chosen for these positions.

The Friends Church stands for world-wide peace, yet its members are left free to follow the dictates of their own conscience. As a result many of her young men volunteered. The pastor, Rev. Lewis E. Stout, reported that a large sum of money was contributed to the Friends' reconstruction work in France.

The Congregational Church was without a pastor during a part of the war, but its members were very active in supporting the government in all its war activities. Rev. David Bent, the pastor during the latter part of the war, took an active part in all patriotic movements.

The Baptist, the United Brethren and all other churches in the county with their pastors rallied loyally to the support of their government in its time of peril.

LODGES

So far as known, all the lodges of the county were just as patriotic and loyal as any of the other organizations. Much of their relief work was done so quietly that the public learned but very little about it. However, this much is known, that they contributed liberally to all the different war activities and used funds, which were intended for building purposes in many cases, to purchase Liberty bonds. Service flags were displayed in all their halls.

The Elks Lodge of Kokomo stood responsible for the success of the Salvation Army drive, and raised more than the county's quota.

BOY SCOUTS

The Boy Scouts organization was very active in the sale of bonds, thrift stamps and raising money for the relief organizations. It was shown in a report prepared by the general council, that one out of every twenty-three bonds was sold by a boy scout.

SCHOOLS

The public schools of the county, although working under difficulties, due to the shortage of teachers, tried to keep the schools to a high standard of efficiency and at the same time participate in all the war activities. School children solicited members for the Red Cross, sold Liberty bonds and thrift stamps. They collected nutshells which were used in the manufacture of gas masks. Classes adopted French orphans and the Junior Red Cross made garments for the destitute children of the war-stricken countries.

Teachers served on working committees, gave liberally of their funds and assisted the county conscription board with the questionnaires. They bought bonds and thrift stamps and in the classroom taught the meaning of true Americanism.

When the government asked the schools to prepare men in telegraphy, the Kokomo High School immediately assumed the obligation and organized a class in buzzer work. The classes were held in the evening and no one was admitted except drafted men. The instruments were supplied by the government, and W. E. Chandler, manager of the local Western Union telegraph office, donated his services as an instructor. Thirty-eight men were enrolled. Since these men were constantly being taken into the service, only nine completed the course. Six others, having attained the standard set by the war department when they entered the service, were accepted in the radio department of the army.

AMERICAN LEGION

The idea of the American Legion had its inception with the A. E. F., soon after the signing of the armistice. It was generally understood by the soldier that some kind of an organization would be formed among the veterans of the World War, but no one knew just what the nature of it would be. It seemed almost impossible to unite soldiers, coming from all parts of the United States, into one organization. However, through twenty months of warfare, the spirit of comradeship had grown so strong among the men that the ties which bound them together were more lasting than mere acquaintanceship and broader than the creeds of churches. The men seemed to have been lifted from the valley of selfishness to the heights of freedom, where they caught the true American spirit and became conscious of new responsibilities of citizenship. It was only through organization that they could hope to see their ideals realized. The organization began to take definite shape when officers from many departments of the army were called to meet in Paris, February 15, 1919, to prepare plans for the army during the necessary stay in foreign lands under peace conditions. There were enough representatives present at this meeting to act at least as a temporary committee, and Lieutenant Colonel Roosevelt was chosen temporary chairman. A subcommittee was appointed to obtain names of individuals of the A. E. F., who were leaders in their units, to be called to attend a meeting, which was to be held in Paris, March 15, 1919. A second committee was appointed to select leaders among troops at home, and they were to meet at St. Louis, Mo., on the eighth of the following May. It was assumed that out of these two meetings a tentative constitution would be drafted, an appropriate name would be selected, and provisions would be made for proper representation to a meeting which would be held November 11, 1919, when the delegates would have proper authority to formulate and adopt a constitution. The Paris meeting was held as planned, and "American Legion" was chosen as a name for the organization, which was afterwards adopted by the national body. Also a tentative constitution was drafted. The meeting at St. Louis confirmed the action of the Paris meeting, and Minneapolis was selected as the meeting place in November. At the November meeting, Indianapolis, Ind., was chosen permanent headquarters for the Legion and a constitution was adopted. Some of the most important features of the constitution are as follows:

PREAMBLE

For God and country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes: To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetuate a 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the great war; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, State and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good-will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

ARTICLE II

Nature

Sec. 2. The American Legion shall be absolutely nonpolitical and shall not be used for the dissemination of partisan principles or for the promotion of the candidacy of any person seeking public office or preferment. No candidate for or incumbent of a salaried elective public office shall hold any office in the American Legion or in any department or post thereof.

Sec. 3. Each member shall perform his full duty as a citizen according to his own conscience and understanding.

ARTICLE IV

Eligibility

Sec. 1. Any person shall be eligible for membership in the American Legion who was regularly enlisted, drafted, inducted or commissioned, and who served on active duty in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States at some time during the period between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, both dates inclusive, or who, being a citizen of the United States, at the time of his entry therein, served on active duty in the navy, military or air forces of any of the governments associated with the United States during the Great War; provided, that no person shall be entitled to membership (a) who, being in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during said period, refuses on conscientious, political or other grounds to subject himself to military discipline or unqualified service, or (b) who, being in such service, was separated therefrom under circumstances amounting to dishonorable discharge and has not subsequently been officially restored to an honorable status.

ARTICLE XIII

Auxiliaries

Sec. 1. The American Legion recognizes an auxiliary organization to be known as the "Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion."

Sec. 2. Membership in the auxiliary shall be limited to the mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of the members of the American Legion, and to the mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of all men and women who were in the military or naval service of the United States between April 6, 1917, and Nov. 11, 1918, and died in line of duty or after honorable discharge and prior to Nov. 11, 1920.

The local post of the American Legion, which was organized May 30, 1919, chose for its name "James DeArmond Golladay," in honor of the first Howard County soldier killed in the Great War. The first officers elected were: Major W. H. Unversaw, president; Major George D. Marshall, vice-president; Paul Gattis, secretary, and James Holman, treasurer.

The American Legion has been founded on sound principles, justice and freedom; its ideals are those of a true democracy, and its test for membership is pure Americanism. Such an organization should, and no doubt will, in future years, play an important part in solving the perplexing problems which concern the industrial, social and political life of the American people.

THE SILENT WORKERS

It is to be regretted that the names of all those who contributed something to the success of the American arms cannot be recorded.

A list of this kind would be long and one that would be full of surprises to the average citizen. Many who gave freely to all the war activities would not permit their names to be made public. This was not due to a false sense of modesty, but it is the prerogative given to all American citizens to give in the manner they see fit. Many poor working-women, who had saved a few dollars for a rainy day, gave it all for the comfort of the soldier boys. They gave the widow's mite—who could have given more?

Mothers gave their sons and bore their sorrow in silence. Wives kept a silent vigil over their little homes until the husbands returned from the front. Such contributions to the country were greater than serving on any committee, or the gift of money, no matter how great the amount might be. Yet it was necessary to have funds, and the wealthy gave generously out of their abundance. They gave from a sense of duty and not for any hope of reward or honor that might be bestowed upon them. Men and women toiled in the shops making ammunition for the army, farmers labored heroically to produce enough food for the people, and all patriotic citizens labored together unselfishly that the arch enemy of civilization might be overthrown. They may not receive public recognition, but their reward will be found in the satisfaction of knowing that they did their full duty. The names of these silent workers will never be known, but their deeds will live on so long as our free institutions endure. All honor is due to those who gave freely, who worked silently but efficiently, who sacrificed but did not complain, who were loyal but did not boast—to these, the silent workers, we bow our heads in gratitude, for without their support the war could not have been won.

ARMISTICE DAY

It was generally conceded by military critics, early in 1918, that the war would last at least for another year and perhaps even longer. The outlook for an early termination grew more doubtful as the German army, in the face of the most stubborn resistance of the Allies, steadily advanced. In May it looked as if all the channel ports and Paris would fall into the hands of the enemy. At this time the Americans had been in France for almost a year, yet very little had been heard about them. General John J. Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces, had been quietly but effectively getting his men into shape, and at the crucial moment struck with such terrific force that the enemy was not only checked but thrown back. When the news of the glorious victory of Chateau Thierry was heard, the American people were stirred with tremendous enthusiasm. The tide of war had turned in favor of the Allies. They took the offensive all along the western front and steadily drove the Germans back toward the Rhine, and it looked as if it would only be a question of a few days until Germany would have to give up the fight and sue for peace. Each day brought new successes to the American Army and the enemy gradually grew weaker.

All felt that the end was not far away. Rumors of peace were heard on every hand and the very air seemed surcharged with expectancy. So it was not strange, when the news was flashed across the continent that Germany had surrendered, that the people gave vent to their feelings and began to celebrate. Despite the fact that the report was unconfirmed and its authenticity was denied by the authorities at Washington, some newspapers on Nov. 7th carried in bold headlines the report that Germany had quit the fight, and in many cities great celebrations were staged. There were people in Kokomo who thought the report was true, but the great majority wanted to make sure that the war was over before making any demonstration. The rumor proved to be false, and it was not until four days later that the joyful news came that the armistice had been signed.

On Monday morning, Nov. 11, 1918, at 2:30 o'clock, the people of Kokomo were aroused from their sleep by the blowing of whistles, the clanging of bells and the firing of guns. Men hastily dressed and rushed into the streets to see what was the matter. Here they were greeted with the news that the war was over. There was no sleep for anyone for the remainder of the night. Men, women and children, old and young, hurried downtown and eagerly sought the newspaper offices to learn for themselves if the rumors were really true. When they had been fully convinced that the reports were authentic, their enthusiasm knew no bounds, and they immediately began to jollify. At four o'clock Mayor Isaac Wright proclaimed a holiday and urged the factories, stores and schools to close for the day.

Long before the sun had risen on that crisp November morning, thousands of happy people were on the streets shouting themselves hoarse. The Citizens Band got into action early, but it could scarcely be heard above the din, which increased in volume as new recruits were added to the howling hosts. Company D of the State Militia was out in full uniform ready to participate in the day's events. Men and boys riding in automobiles raced about the streets, firing old rusty shotguns that had not been used for years, and shouting like a band of Comanche Indians. Women, who were usually calm and dignified, marched through the streets yelling at the top of their voices and at the same time beating on anything that would make a noise. Those riding horses were dressed in grotesque costumes and carried banners bearing significant inscriptions.

The sentiment expressed by most of them showed with what utter contempt the American people regarded the Kaiser. Staid and conservative men smiled an approval of all the wild and hilarious frolic. The city police—where were they?—no one thought about them, and they forgot that they were officers of the law and joined with the crowd to make the celebration a success. The entire town took on a festive air. Stores, shops, factories and dwellings were profusely decorated with red, white and blue bunting and United States flags. Here and there were clusters of flags representing the combined colors of the allied nations. Automobiles were covered with the Stars and Stripes. All was in a state of excitement—church bells rang, whistles blew, and even the old town clock seemed to be forgetful and failed to strike the hours of the day.

The news spread rapidly to the rural districts, and by the noon hour thousands of farmers and their families had come to the city to join in the celebration. On an occasion like this a day's program would not be complete without a parade, so one was planned for the afternoon. Promptly at 2:30 o'clock the parade, headed by the band, and with thousands in line, started. Its course was over the principal streets of the city and it took more than two hours for it to pass a given point.

No parade just like it was ever staged before. With little or no preparation, every industry and organization in the county fell into line with a large representation. Each group as it joined the procession tried to make more noise than the one preceding, until it seemed that bedlam had broken loose. However, it was an orderly disorder. It was a great day, one that can never be forgotten. There are only a few days like this one in the history of any nation. They occur only after some threatened national calamity has been averted, and on such occasions the people give themselves over to unrestrained rejoicing.

When the parade was over, the people returned to their homes thoroughly exhausted by the day's excitement. With the night the clang of bells, the shout of boys and the firing of guns gradually died away and finally ceased altogether. And thus ended the most remarkable day the people of Howard County ever witnessed.

For almost two years we were engaged in a great conflict with a strong and resourceful enemy, whose purposes and ideals were in direct opposition to those of a free people. Our army, in conjunction with those of the Allies, fought the war to a successful conclusion and stripped the enemy of his power to again threaten the liberties of the world. The victory gained was a priceless heritage, and future generations will rise up and call the defenders of the people's freedom blessed. To have had even a small part in that titanic struggle will be considered a high honor in the years to come.

The perfect co-ordination of all the people of the nation, working, saving and sacrificing together, made our blows effective, and without them the cause would have been lost. Nearly three thousand of Howard County's young men responded to their country's call, and how well they fought can best be attested by the valor displayed on the field of battle. Three were decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross, three with the Croix de Guerre, one with the Italian Cross, one with the Belgian Cross, and many others were cited for bravery. Thirty-eight never returned—they died that others might live. The others were no less brave. All were not called into the most dangerous and conspicuous places. However, honor is due to all who labored heroically for the success of the cause, whether it be on the battle-field, in the training camp, in the navy or behind closed doors in the deadly gas laboratories, for it required the services of all.

The war is now over. The anxious days from April 6, 1917, the beginning of the war, until its close Nov. 11, 1918, have passed; war organizations have been demobilized, industries have returned to peaceful pursuits, the soldiers have returned, and the people of Howard County can now look back over their labors and feel proud of their achievements.

PERSONNEL OF HOWARD COUNTY WAR ORGANIZATIONS

The city, township and county chairmen for the different war activities submitted the following names of persons who assisted in war work. It was just as necessary to have the civilian population well organized as it was to have a well-disciplined army. And it was through organizations and committees that the great majority of the work was done. Persons who headed these committees were chosen for their executive ability, and those in the ranks were chosen for their ability to work. The task was not always pleasant, but it had to be done and someone had to do it. Some few served on only one committee, while others took an active part in every drive that was made. All who worked on these committees did so at the sacrifice of their own business. No one received any compensation for his labor or had any thought of reward. All labored from a sense of duty. The amount of good accomplished is a testimony of the faithful service rendered by those who had some part in it, from the solicitor in the most remote districts of the county to those who held the most responsible positions in the organizations. It was the unity of purpose and an unselfish devotion to duty that gave success to the county's war organizations.
